EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917

SEC. 3. [The alien entering in any vessel in the United States to or who may hereafter be found on board of any such vessel within the limits of the United States, except those specifically exempted by law, who may not be admissible to the United States under any of the provisions of this Act, or of any law now or hereafter enacted or amended, shall be deported in the manner provided by law to the country whence he came, as provided in section 20 of this Act, or to the country in which is situated the port at which he embarked for the United States, as provided in section 21 of this Act, at the option of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which the alien arrived in the United States. Deportation of aliens arriving in the United States shall be at such ports as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor, and shall be in accordance with such rules and regulations as he may prescribe. All aliens ordered deported shall be subject to detention under the provisions of section 20 of this Act at such ports as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor pending their deportation, and the cost of their maintenance while so detained shall be borne by the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which they arrived in the United States. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention of any alien prior to the time fixed for his departure unless he is liable to be taken on board a vessel by reason of the provisions of this section. Any alien who shall come in violation of any law or laws of the United States, and who is ordered deported therefrom, shall be deported as provided in this section, upon the certification by the Secretary of Labor of the fact that a final order of deportation has been made against such alien. Pending such deportation, such alien may be released under such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart from the United States within a period of six months from the date of any final order of deportation made against him under the provisions of this section, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he was unable to depart from the United States within such period because of the lack of shipping facilities, or because he is a necessary witness in connection with the prosecution of persons charged with violating any of the provisions of this Act, or for other cause not due to his own fault, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by a fine of not more than $1,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the court. Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart from the United States within a period of six months from the date of any final order of deportation made against him under the provisions of this section, who shall thereafter enter, attempt to enter, or be at any time found within the United States, shall be deported and shall be incapable of naturalization. The provisions of this section shall be applicable to any alien against whom a final order of deportation shall have been made heretofore or hereafter under the provisions of section 20 of this Act. Any alien who shall willfully remain within the United States in violation of an order of the Secretary of Labor canceling his landing or granting him permission to enter temporarily within the United States, or who shall remain within the United States for a longer time than that for which he was granted permission to enter, shall be deported in the manner provided by this section of this Act for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully.]

SEC. 19. (a) [The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except contiguous territory, shall not land or permit to be landed any alien, other than a seaman, unless and until there shall have been delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of entry a list or manifest of such alien, and of the name, nationality, last residence, destination, and purpose of entry in the United States of each alien to be landed, and of such other information in relation to such alien as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, which list or manifest shall be prepared and sworn to at the time of embarkation of such alien by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or by the surgeon or other officer performing the duties customarily performed by a surgeon, on board such vessel, and shall be produced with each alien to be landed for examination by the immigrant inspector at the port of entry, and shall be corrected, if found incorrect in any particular by the immigrant inspector before the said alien is landed, or before the vessel leaves the port, and a duplicate list or manifest certified by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or by the surgeon or other officer performing the duties customarily performed by a surgeon, shall be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the time of the departure of the vessel from the port. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list or manifest, or who shall refuse or fail to detain any alien on board his vessel when required so to do by the immigrant inspector, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver such list or manifest, or who shall refuse or fail to detain any alien on board his vessel when required so to do by the immigrant inspector, or who shall refuse or fail to comply with the regulations of the Secretary of Labor governing the same, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $120 for each alien with respect to whom such failure occurs. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, remit the fine or any part thereof imposed for the failure to detain any alien on board any vessel.

(b) Every such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer shall be required to deposit with the collector of customs a sum sufficient to cover the expense of detention and maintenance of each alien detained on account of the inability of such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer to return such alien on board the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on account of the refusal of such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer to return such alien on board such vessel, or on account of any cause or proceeding which may delay the departure of the vessel with such alien on board, and the said sum shall be used to defray the cost of such detention and maintenance. Any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer may at any time withdraw the deposit or any part thereof which is in excess of the amount actually required for the detention and maintenance of such alien. Every master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer who shall refuse or fail to deposit the sum required by this section shall pay to the collector of customs a penalty of $300 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs. Such penalty shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by the libel and seizure of such vessel by any customs officer. No such vessel shall be granted clearance until such penalty has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor.

(c) If the Secretary of Labor finds that it does not appear that the owner, agent, consignee, master, or commanding officer of any vessel arriving in the United States has violated any of the provisions of this section, he may remit any fine, penalty, or forfeiture incurred hereunder, and may direct the refund of any money exacted and paid hereunder.

(d) Proof that an alien remained beyond the period of a visa duly issued to him by a consular officer of the United States, or that he entered the United States without a visa when one was required by the immigration laws, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to obtain or present such visa at the time of his entry.

SEC. 20. (a) Any alien who shall enter the United States in violation of any law or regulation made in pursuance thereof, or who shall remain therein for a longer time than permitted by the law or regulations made in pursuance thereof, shall, upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor, be taken into custody and deported. Any such alien shall be deported only after a hearing before a special inquiry officer, unless the right to such hearing shall be waived by such alien and he shall depart immediately from the United States. Hearings under this section before special inquiry officers shall be fair and shall be conducted as speedily as practicable after the alien arrives at the port of arrival or is taken into custody in the interior. Any alien against whom any such proceedings are pending may be represented before each special inquiry officer by such counsel, agent, or attorney as he may see fit and at no cost to the United States. The decision of the special inquiry officer shall be based only upon the evidence produced at the hearing. The Secretary of Labor shall provide by regulation for the review of cases of aliens who have been ordered deported upon appeal by the alien to the Secretary of Labor or upon certification by the special inquiry officer to the Secretary of Labor. Pending a decision on appeal or certification, the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, release the alien from custody upon the giving of a bond, or may require the deposit of such sum as may be necessary to insure the alien's departure, or may release the alien on such conditions as he may prescribe. Any alien who shall be released from custody pending the determination of his case shall be subject to such conditions as may be imposed upon him, and upon failure to comply with any such condition shall forfeit any bond given for his release, and shall be liable to be taken into custody and deported without further hearing or proceedings. The decision of the Secretary of Labor shall be final. Any alien who shall be ordered deported shall be entitled to receive from the Secretary of Labor a reasonable sum, not exceeding $25, to defray the cost of his transportation to the port of departure, or to the place from which he entered the United States, or to such place within the country whence he came as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, if he shall make application therefor within one year from the date of his entry into the United States. Any alien who shall be ordered deported and who shall not have applied for and received the sum herein specified within one year from the date of his entry into the United States shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Any alien who shall be ordered deported and who shall make application within one year from the date of his entry into the United States to the Secretary of Labor for the return of the amount paid by him for the head tax and for the cost of his detention, if any, shall be entitled to receive the same from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act. Any alien who shall be ordered deported and who shall not make application within one year from the date of his entry into the United States for the return of the amount paid by him for the head tax and for the cost of his detention, if any, shall be entitled to receive the same from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, upon the certification of the Secretary of Labor, after the deportation of such alien shall have been effected. Any alien who shall be ordered deported and who shall have been granted a visa by a consular officer of the United States shall be deported to the country whence he came, unless the consular officer who granted the visa shall, at the time of granting the same, endorse thereon the country to which the alien is destined, and the alien shall be deported to the country designated in the visa, if the consular officer who granted the visa shall certify that the alien is entitled to admission to such country. Any alien who shall be ordered deported and who shall not have been granted a visa by a consular officer of the United States shall be deported to the country whence he came, unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he is entitled to admission to some other country, and shall be deported to such country if such country shall admit him

Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board such vessel when ordered to do so by the master thereof, or the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, may be detained on board or at such port until the departure of such vessel, and shall be subject to the payment of a penalty of not to exceed $10 for each day during which he may be so detained, which penalty may be collected by the Secretary of Labor out of any moneys due such alien seaman, or may be recovered by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction against such alien seaman or the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of the vessel on board which such alien seaman arrived in the United States. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board such vessel when ordered to do so by the master thereof, or the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, may be arrested upon the warrant of any commissioner, judge, or court of the United States, without bail, and shall be taken before the commissioner, judge, or court for examination. If it shall appear to the satisfaction of the commissioner, judge, or court that such alien seaman has violated any of the provisions of this section, he shall be delivered to the master of the vessel on board which he arrived, or to the steamship company operating such vessel, or to the charterer of such vessel, and the amount of the penalty incurred by such violation may be deducted from the wages of such alien seaman, or may be recovered by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction against such alien seaman or the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of the vessel on board which such alien seaman arrived in the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to depart on board such vessel when ordered to do so by the master thereof, or the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, may be arrested upon the warrant of any commissioner, judge, or court of the United States, without bail, and shall be taken before the commissioner, judge, or court for examination. If it shall appear to the satisfaction of the commissioner, judge, or court that such alien seaman has violated any of the provisions of this section, he shall be delivered to the master of the vessel on board which he arrived, or to the steamship company operating such vessel, or to the charterer of such vessel, and the amount of the penalty incurred by such violation may be deducted from the wages of such alien seaman, or may be recovered by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction against such alien seaman or the master, agent, consignee, owner, or charterer of the vessel on board which such alien seaman arrived in the United States. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than an alien seaman who is a native, citizen, subject, or national of the country in which the port of arrival is located) shall be permitted to land temporarily from the vessel unless (a) such alien seaman is in possession of a valid passport and a nonimmigrant visa, or (b) such alien seaman is in possession of a valid passport and has been granted by the Attorney General a waiver of the requirement that he be in possession of a nonimmigrant visa, or (c) such alien seaman is in possession of a valid seaman's identity certificate and is proceeding directly to the vessel on which he is employed, or (d) such alien seaman is in possession of a valid seaman's identity certificate and has been granted by the Attorney General a waiver of the requirement that he be in possession of a nonimmigrant visa. Such seaman shall be granted a conditional landing permit by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, which shall limit the seaman to proceeding directly to the vessel on which he is employed, and shall require the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel to present the seaman for inspection by an immigration officer at the time the vessel is ready to depart from the port. Such seaman shall be deported on the vessel on which he arrived unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that the seaman will depart on another vessel or that special circumstances exist which warrant the granting to the seaman of permission to remain temporarily in the United States as a nonimmigrant visitor. Any seaman who fails to depart on the vessel on which he arrived or to report on board any other vessel scheduled to depart from the port of arrival, or who fails to obtain a conditional landing permit, or who obtains such permit by fraud, or who is found upon the vessel after it has departed from a port in the United States, shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 of this Act. Any alien seaman who is deported under the provisions of this section shall be ineligible to receive any payment or allowance from any appropriation for the relief of distressed American seamen

The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel arriving at a port of the United States shall deliver to the immigration officer at such port a list or manifest containing such information with respect to the crew as may be required by the Attorney General. The Attorney General may require any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel to deliver to the immigration officer at such port a list or manifest containing such information with respect to any or all persons on board such vessel, whether they be passengers, members of the crew, or otherwise.

(b) The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel arriving at the United States from any place outside the adjacent islands shall, before the departure of such vessel from such port of arrival, deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure (or, if there be no such officer at such port, then to the officer in charge at the nearest port of entry) a manifest, in duplicate, containing such information with respect to the persons on board such vessel as may be required by the Attorney General under the provisions of this section. The Attorney General may, by regulation, waive the requirements of this subsection with respect to any vessel or class of vessels.

(c) The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel or aircraft bringing an alien to the United States who intends to depart therefrom immediately and who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport, visa, reentry permit, or other travel document required by this Act, and such other documents as may be required by the Attorney General, shall present such passport, visa, reentry permit, or other travel document required by this Act, and such other documents as may be required by the Attorney General, to the immigration officer at the port of arrival, and shall deliver to such officer at such port a list containing the name, age, calling, and last permanent residence of each such alien. Such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel or aircraft shall not allow any such alien to land in the United States from such vessel or aircraft at any port other than the port at which such alien has been inspected by the immigration officer, except in case of emergency or for reasons beyond the control of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel or aircraft, or in case such alien is in possession of a permit issued by the Attorney General authorizing such landing at such other port.

(d) Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel or aircraft who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such violation, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel or aircraft which has failed to comply with the provisions of this section until such vessel or aircraft shall have complied with such provisions and paid such fine or penalty, or shall have given bond or undertaking therefor satisfactory to the Attorney General.

(e) Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel or aircraft who shall refuse or fail to deliver to any immigration officer any list required by subsection (b) or (c) of this section, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver to any such officer any such list in proper form, or who shall refuse or fail to detain on board his vessel or aircraft any alien when required so to do by any such officer, or who shall refuse or fail to pay the cost of detaining and maintaining any such alien when required so to do by the Attorney General, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver to any such officer any such alien on board his vessel or aircraft when required so to do by any such officer, or who shall refuse or fail to pay any fine which may be imposed upon him for bringing to the United States any alien who does not have in his possession the documents required by this Act, or who shall refuse or fail to pay any fine which may be imposed upon him for violation of any of the provisions of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such violation, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Clearance may be withheld from any vessel or aircraft which has failed to comply with the provisions of this section until such vessel or aircraft shall have complied with such provisions and paid such fine or penalty, or shall have given bond or undertaking therefor satisfactory to the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

Sec. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or treatment to such extraordinary nature as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 161, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

Sec. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside contiguous territory, shall deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival (where no such officer is present at the port, then to the officer in charge at the nearest port of entry) a manifest, in duplicate, containing such information as may be required by the Attorney General with respect to each alien seaman on board such vessel, and such further information as to deport such seamen if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question whether the penalty, or any part thereof, should be remitted or refunded, or pending an application for review, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel, upon application in writing therefor, may be granted clearance upon the deposit of such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, in the discretion of the collector of customs, pending the determination of the question whether such seaman has been lawfully employed on board such vessel, and such clearance shall not be refused or withheld because of the failure of such seaman to depart with the vessel, if such seaman has been lawfully employed on board such vessel and has been discharged in accordance with the provisions of this section, and if such seaman is not likely to become a public charge, and if he shall not have been convicted of a felony or other infamous crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, or if he is not a member of the anarchistic or other class excluded from admission to the United States under the immigration laws.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel arriving therein from any place outside contiguous territory, and who shall remain therein for a period in excess of the period for which he was granted permission to land, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully, and the cost of his maintenance while detained and of his deportation shall be a lien against the vessel on which he arrived, and shall be paid to the master thereof before such vessel shall be granted clearance until such lien is satisfied, or the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel shall have given bond to the Attorney General in such sum as he may require, not exceeding double the amount of such lien, conditioned upon the payment thereof.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that any deportation of an alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will be unduly burdensome because of the inadequacy of the medical facilities available to such seaman on board such vessel, he may cause such seaman to be treated in a hospital at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below should be prepared on plain white paper by the Master, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members, including names of aliens shipped or discharged, a statement of the nature of the change, and the date thereof, should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of the vessel, the list should be kept at the front of the shipping articles, or in the pocket immediately in the rear of the shipping articles. When an alien member is a "conscript" or a national of a country at war, the fact should be noted on the list. The list of changes of alien members shall not be destroyed or mutilated, and shall be delivered by the Master to the Principal Immigration Officer at the first port of entry in the United States after the departure of the vessel from a foreign port. Two deliveries of the list of changes of alien members, including the names of aliens shipped or discharged, shall be made by the Master to the Principal Immigration Officer at the port of departure from the United States, one delivery to be made at the time of clearance of the vessel and the other at the time of arrival at the first port of entry in the United States. Failure to comply with the requirements of this notice may result in the imposition of a penalty of $500 for each offense. (R.S. 2579, as amended by the Act of June 5, 1920 (41 Stat. 1008); 8 U.S.C. 180.)

(43 Stat. 164, 165; 22 Stat. 214; 8 U.S.C. 191.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deterioration of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived has become so great that he cannot proceed to his destination without danger to his life or health, he may authorize the master to land the alien seaman in a hospital for treatment at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived. The Attorney General may require such bond as he may deem necessary to assure the return of the alien seaman to the vessel for departure from the United States.

(b) Every alien seaman shall be detained on board and shall not be permitted to land in the United States from any vessel at any time prior to the completion of the physical examination, except that the Attorney General may, in his discretion, parole any alien seaman into the United States temporarily for the purpose of medical treatment, or temporarily for the purpose of landing the alien seaman who has been certified by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be destitute, helpless, or likely to become a public charge, or who has been certified by the said medical officer to be afflicted with a communicable disease specified in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (8 U.S.C. 136), and who will be found upon examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service not to have a communicable disease other than those mentioned in said section 3, or who has been certified by said medical officer to be afflicted with a physical defect, disease, or disability specified in section 10 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (8 U.S.C. 141), and who will be found upon examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service not to have a physical defect, disease, or disability other than that with which he has been certified, if the Attorney General is satisfied that such alien seaman will not become a public charge and that his certificate of discharge will be issued and he will be removed from the United States upon the departure of the vessel from a port of the United States. Every alien seaman who is paroled into the United States under the provisions of this subsection shall be kept under observation by the United States Public Health Service until the vessel on which he arrived departs from the United States or sooner if, in the opinion of the medical officer in charge, he is no longer a public charge. Any alien seaman who is paroled into the United States under the provisions of this subsection who becomes a public charge at any time before the vessel on which he arrived departs from the United States shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of other aliens who become public charges within one year after entry.

(a) Any alien seaman who shall come to the United States on a vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside the United States, whether destined to the United States or not, and who is certified by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service at the port of arrival to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities specified in section 3 or section 10 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (8 U.S.C. 136, 141), shall be detained on board the vessel on which he arrives pending the completion of a physical and mental examination by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which the alien seaman arrives shall furnish a bond satisfactory to the Attorney General in such amount, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman, as he may require conditioned for the payment of a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman who is allowed to land temporarily or permanently in the United States contrary to law, and for the payment of such hospital expenses and burial expenses as may be incurred on account of any alien seaman who is certified on account of a communicable disease specified in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (8 U.S.C. 136), or on account of any mental defect certified on account of any of the causes specified in section 10 of said Act (8 U.S.C. 141), which may become a public charge within one year after entry, and for the deportation of any such alien seaman if deported within one year after entry. Upon the deposit of such security, the Attorney General may cause such alien seaman to be granted a parole for the period of one year, or for such shorter period of time as the Attorney General may direct, and may renew such parole for like periods. Such alien seaman may be required to report to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival from time to time and may be required to proceed to such other port or ports for examination by the boards of special inquiry as the Attorney General may direct. The cost of such hospital, burial, and other expenses incurred on account of any alien seaman who becomes a public charge, and the cost of deportation of any alien seaman who becomes a public charge, shall be recovered from the owner of the vessel on which he arrived. The decision of the Attorney General as to the liability of the vessel, master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof, and as to the sufficiency of the security furnished, shall be final. Any bond given under the provisions of this section may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the name of the Attorney General in any district in which any of the obligors reside or may be found. Any such bond shall be void if sued upon within two years after the date of the last action of the Attorney General in connection with the case of the alien seaman in relation to whom the bond was given. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, cancel any such bond upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such bond, except that collection may be made on the bond for any hospital, burial, or other expenses incurred before the deposit is made. Any sum deposited as security for the bond of any alien seaman may be applied to the payment of any such expenses incurred on account of such alien seaman, and the balance returned to the depositor or his legal representative. Any such deposit may be withdrawn at any time upon the substitution of a sufficient bond or other security. The Attorney General may prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, the Panama Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Philippine Islands, shall be permitted to land in the United States from such vessel temporarily for medical treatment, or because of sickness or injury, any alien seaman who has been employed on board such vessel, and who is certified by the medical officer of the United States Public Health Service at the port of arrival to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities specified in section 3 or section 10 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (8 U.S.C. 136, 141), unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which the alien seaman arrives shall furnish a bond in the penal sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman who is allowed to land, conditioned to indemnify the United States against any expenses which may be incurred on account of any such alien seaman who becomes a public charge within one year after entry, and for the deportation of any such alien seaman if deported within one year after entry. Upon the deposit of such security, the Attorney General may cause such alien seaman to be granted a parole for the period of one year, or for such shorter period of time as the Attorney General may direct, and may renew such parole for like periods. Such alien seaman may be required to report to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival from time to time and may be required to proceed to such other port or ports for examination by the boards of special inquiry as the Attorney General may direct. The cost of such hospital, burial, and other expenses incurred on account of any alien seaman who becomes a public charge, and the cost of deportation of any alien seaman who becomes a public charge, shall be recovered from the owner of the vessel on which he arrived. The decision of the Attorney General as to the liability of the vessel, master, agent, owner, or consignee thereof, and as to the sufficiency of the security furnished, shall be final. Any bond given under the provisions of this section may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the name of the Attorney General in any district in which any of the obligors reside or may be found. Any such bond shall be void if sued upon within two years after the date of the last action of the Attorney General in connection with the case of the alien seaman in relation to whom the bond was given. The Attorney General may, in his discretion, cancel any such bond upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such bond, except that collection may be made on the bond for any hospital, burial, or other expenses incurred before the deposit is made. Any sum deposited as security for the bond of any alien seaman may be applied to the payment of any such expenses incurred on account of such alien seaman, and the balance returned to the depositor or his legal representative. Any such deposit may be withdrawn at any time upon the substitution of a sufficient bond or other security. The Attorney General may prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside the United States (except Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, the Panama Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Philippine Islands) or shall be permitted to land in the United States except during such time and subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and no such alien seaman shall be employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside the United States (except Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, the Panama Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Philippine Islands) who has not been certified by the immigration officer at the port of arrival as having been examined in accordance with the provisions of this section: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, except from the provisions of this section any alien seaman employed on board a vessel touching at ports of the United States during the course of a voyage through waters adjacent thereto to or from foreign territory, but not entering the United States, Canada, Mexico, Newfoundland, the Panama Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Philippine Islands, if such alien seaman shall be in possession of a valid passport and shall comply with such conditions governing his landing and return on board as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported to the country to which he belongs or in which he resides at the time he last embarked, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall pay the cost of his deportation, or unless he shall deposit with the Secretary of Labor sufficient money to pay the cost of his deportation, or unless he shall furnish a bond satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor to indemnify the United States against the cost of his deportation. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported on the vessel on which he arrived, if practicable, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of such vessel shall establish to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that such alien seaman was not allowed to land in the United States by the immigration officer at the port of arrival and was not afforded reasonable opportunity to land. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to comply with the requirements of this section or with any regulations prescribed hereunder, or who shall refuse or fail to detain any alien seaman on board when ordered so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall refuse or fail to deport any alien seaman in accordance with the provisions of this section, shall be severally liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom any such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment thereof, or while the payment thereof is delayed by an appeal, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved as to the collection of such penalty by the United States district attorney for the district in which the port is located. The Attorney General shall be charged with the duty of enforcing the provisions of this section, and is authorized to make such rules, regulations, and orders with reference thereto as may be necessary. Any such rules, regulations, and orders may be made effective in advance in so far as they do not prescribe penalties or provide for the deportation of any alien seaman who shall have entered the United States prior to the making thereof. Nothing in this section shall be construed to amend, repeal, impair, or affect existing laws or treaties relating to the immigration, exclusion, or deportation of seamen, except as specifically provided herein. The Attorney General may refuse to grant clearance to any vessel the master, agent, owner, or consignee of which shall have failed to comply with any of the provisions of this section or of any rules, regulations, or orders made thereunder, or with any of the provisions of section 8 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (8 U.S.C. 144), relating to the payment of the head tax imposed by that section, until such master, agent, owner, or consignee shall have complied with such provisions, rules, regulations, or orders, or shall have given bond to the United States, with sufficient surety, in such sum and containing such conditions as may be required by the Attorney General, or his duly authorized agent, conditioned upon such compliance.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 16. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, except upon the certificate of the master of any vessel arriving in the United States that such alien was employed on board his vessel when it departed from a port in the United States, that such employment is necessary in order to enable such alien to depart as a passenger on such vessel, and that no citizen of the United States is available to perform the duties which such alien is to perform. Upon the arrival of such vessel at a port of entry in the United States the master thereof shall report the name of each such alien and the amount of money in his possession, and shall deliver to the immigration officer at such port a list containing the name, age, last permanent residence, nationality, final destination, and whether in possession of a ticket, of each such alien. Such list shall be verified by the master under his oath of office. Before any such alien is granted a conditional permit to land temporarily in the United States, he shall be examined by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, and certificates shall be issued and delivered to the master of such vessel stating that each such alien has been found to be free from any contagious disease, mental defect, or other disease or illness for which he might be excluded from admission into the United States under the provisions of this Act or any other law or regulation at the time of the examination of such alien for a conditional permit. Such certificates shall be delivered by the master to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and shall be produced by such officer upon the demand of any immigrant inspector. Any master who shall refuse to comply with the provisions of this section shall pay a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the payment of such penalty, or while any such penalty remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to such determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of entry is located. The Attorney General is authorized and directed to withhold or cancel the permit to land of any alien seaman who deserts, and to cause the arrest and deportation of any such alien who lands in the United States, if practicable, in the vessel in which he arrived or in another vessel in the service of the same owner. Any master who shall fail to detain any alien seaman on board his vessel after such alien has been ordered by the Attorney General to be detained, or who shall refuse to detain such alien seaman on board his vessel when required so to do, shall pay a penalty of $2,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General may employ such additional medical officers, and may detail such officers and employees of the United States Public Health Service, as may be necessary to perform the duties required by this section. Any master who shall refuse to detain any alien seaman on board his vessel after such alien has been ordered by the Attorney General to be detained, or who shall refuse to deliver any such alien seaman to the custody of the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or who shall refuse to pay any fine imposed upon him by the Attorney General under the provisions of this section, shall be liable to a penalty of $2,000. Such penalties may be remitted or mitigated by the Attorney General upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and just, or may be recovered, with costs, in an action commenced by the United States district attorney in the district in which the master resides or in which the vessel may be found. Clearance may be granted to any vessel notwithstanding the pendency of such action or the existence of any unpaid penalty upon the deposit of such sum as the court may direct to cover such penalty and costs, or upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof. The Attorney General is authorized to issue regulations not inconsistent with law for the administration and enforcement of the provisions of this section and for the entry and clearance of vessels to which it applies. SEC. 36. That from arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspectors at the port of arrival a complete manifest, in triplicate, of all the alien passengers for the United States on board such vessel, whether such passengers are cabin passengers or in the steerage, and whether they embark or disembark at that port or at any foreign port or place, which manifest shall be prepared and delivered in such form as the Attorney General shall by regulations prescribe, and shall contain such information as may be required by the boards of special inquiry, or any member thereof, concerning each alien mentioned therein, the number of pieces of baggage belonging to each, and the ports at which such passengers severally embarked and at which they intend to land. The master, owner, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing aliens to the United States shall deliver to the immigrant inspectors at the port of arrival a list containing the name of all aliens employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who have been discharged from such vessel prior to arrival at such port, and shall report the cause of such discharge, the intended future destination of such alien, together with any information likely to lead to his apprehension, and the name and last known address of any relative or friend of such alien who may be accompanying him or intending to follow him to the United States. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master who refuses to deliver such list, or who fails to report the name of any alien employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who has been discharged prior to arrival at such port, or who refuses to answer truthfully and fully any interrogation touching such alien, or who refuses to deliver to any such alien any letter, paper, or document addressed to such alien when requested so to do by such alien, shall pay a penalty of $10 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs: Provided, That clearance may be granted any vessel notwithstanding the failure to deliver such list or the existence of such unpaid penalty upon the deposit of such sum as the collector of customs may require, not exceeding the amount of such penalty, to cover the same until the question of the liability of the master to the payment thereof can be determined by the Secretary of Labor, and in the event such fine is imposed, while it remains unpaid, the determination of such question shall be reported to the collector of customs, and clearance may be granted upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. Such list or manifest shall be delivered before the vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs of the district in which the port is situated, or if there be no collector at such port, then before the vessel shall depart from such port. Such list or manifest shall be verified by the oath of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel, taken before an immigrant inspector, or before the collector, deputy collector, or other officer of customs authorized to administer oaths to masters of vessels clearing from the port. Such list or manifest shall be prepared and verified in quadruplicate, and the original thereof, or such other copy as the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization may require, shall be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival; the second copy shall be retained by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel for production to the proper customs officer at the port of departure, or if there be no customs officer at such port, then for delivery to the immigrant inspector at the last port of departure; the third copy shall be delivered to the collector of customs at the port of departure; and the fourth copy shall be retained by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel for his own use and protection. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deliver such list or manifest, or any copy thereof, at the time of the departure of the vessel from any foreign port or place for the United States, or who shall refuse or neglect to deliver such list or manifest, or any copy thereof, at the time of the arrival of such vessel at a port of the United States, or who shall refuse or neglect to answer truthfully and fully to the best of his knowledge any question touching the matters required to be stated in such list or manifest, or who shall knowingly and willfully make any false statement in relation thereto, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any person who knowingly and willfully makes any false statement in relation to the name, occupation, and last residence of any alien whose name is not contained in such list or manifest, or who knowingly and willfully makes any false statement in relation to the right of any alien to enter the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival the list or manifest required by this section, or who shall refuse or neglect to deliver to the collector of customs at the port of departure the copy of such list or manifest required by this section, shall pay to the collector of customs at the port of departure the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered to the customs district in which the port of arrival is located: Provided, That no such vessel shall be granted clearance papers by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of departure is located while it continues to be detained by the immigrant inspector at the direction of the Secretary of Labor in the exercise of the powers conferred by this section, except upon the production of a certificate of the immigrant inspector that the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel has complied fully with the requirements of this section as to the delivery of lists or manifests and the payment of fines imposed by this section up to the time of the granting of such clearance papers, and the payment of such fines shall be a condition precedent to the granting of such clearance papers: Provided further, That clearance papers may be granted prior to the payment of such fines upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fines with the collector of customs, or the filing of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to such sum as he may deem proper. [Any action brought to recover a fine imposed under the provisions of this section shall be commenced within five years after the cause of action shall have arisen.]

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board a vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, or any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman who has been granted a conditional permit to land temporarily as provided in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, as amended (U.S.C., title 8, sec. 203), shall be required to post any bond or to pay any tax, except as provided in section 2 of the Act of February 18, 1931 (U.S.C., title 8, sec. 203), as a condition precedent to the granting of a permit to such alien seaman to go ashore temporarily during the period his vessel remains in port, but the consular officer issuing such conditional permit may require any such alien seaman to deposit with the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry a sum sufficient to pay the cost of his passage and maintenance while in the United States and his return to a foreign port or place in case he becomes a public charge or fails to depart with his vessel or within the period of his conditional permit, unless such seaman shall furnish a bond with sufficient surety for the payment of such costs and charges. Any bond required by the immigration officer or the Secretary of Labor to be given by the master or agent of the vessel on which any alien seaman arrived shall be void and of no effect unless such seaman departs on said vessel or within the period of his conditional permit, or unless the master or agent of the vessel produces to the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure the certificate of the consular officer who issued the conditional permit to such seaman that such seaman has been duly discharged from said vessel with the consent of the consular officer, or unless such master or agent of the vessel furnishes to the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure such other evidence as may be required by the Secretary of Labor that such seaman has been lawfully discharged from said vessel with the consent of the consular officer. Any vessel which shall depart from the United States without having complied with the requirements of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine or any part thereof, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty incurred under the provisions of this section. This section as amended shall apply to all passenger vessels arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone on and after the effective date of this Act. (U.S.C., Supp. VII, title 8, sec. 201.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone shall cause to be delivered to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival a complete list or manifest of all persons on board such vessel, whether as passengers or members of the crew, and full information concerning each such person, in such form and manner and at such time as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. Such list or manifest shall be prepared and delivered in duplicate, and shall be verified by the master or other officer of the vessel. Such list or manifest shall contain such information as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, and shall be subject to such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, for the proper enforcement of the immigration laws. The Attorney General may require any additional information in writing thereto necessary to carry out the provisions of this section. The Attorney General may, when satisfied that any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone is not to be used for the purpose of bringing aliens into the United States, issue a permit in lieu of the list or manifest required by this section, authorizing the vessel to proceed to a port of the United States without the delivery of such list or manifest.

(b) Any person who shall refuse to comply with the provisions of this section, or shall knowingly or willfully make any false or incorrect statement or furnish any false or incorrect information in connection therewith, or who shall refuse to answer any question put to him by any immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival touching the matters required to be stated in the list or manifest, or who shall refuse to permit any immigration officer to go on board any vessel for the purpose of examining the list or manifest, or who shall refuse to deliver the list or manifest required by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deficiencies in the list or manifest of any vessel are such as to indicate that the master or agent of the vessel has failed to comply with the requirements of this section, he may require that the vessel be detained at the port of arrival for a period not to exceed five days after the deficiencies have been corrected, and may refuse clearance to the vessel during such period.

(d) Any alien seaman who shall fail to perform any duty required of him by this section, or who shall violate any of the provisions thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $50 or by imprisonment for not more than ten days, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(e) The Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application of this section in the case of any vessel which shall have been in the service of the United States Government or Navy during the present war, and which shall be employed solely in the business of the United States Government or Navy, and which shall not have been engaged in the transportation of any alien seaman except upon the request of the Secretary of War or the Secretary of the Navy.

That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigration officers in charge at the port of arrival lists or manifests of all persons on board such vessel, which lists or manifests shall be prepared and delivered at such time and place and in such manner as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the delivery of lists or manifests by the masters of vessels plying exclusively between ports of the United States and ports of countries contiguous thereto, or adjacent islands, of such vessels as he may designate: Provided further, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the delivery of lists or manifests by the masters of vessels not engaged in the transportation of passengers for hire between ports of the United States and foreign ports, of such vessels as he may designate. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who refuses to deliver such lists or manifests, or who fails to deliver the same within the time prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, or who refuses to answer any question put to him by any immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival touching the matters required to be stated in the lists or manifests, or who refuses to permit any immigration officer to go on board any vessel for the purpose of examining the lists or manifests required by this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 14. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws has employment on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, the Canal Zone, the Republic of Panama, the Republic of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, or the British, French, or Netherland possessions in the West Indies adjacent to the United States), or on board any vessel solely plying between ports of the United States, unless there is on board such vessel at the time of her departure from each port at which she loads cargo or passengers destined to a port in the United States a certificate in duplicate issued by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization or such officer as he may designate, stating that such alien seaman has been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence or has been granted a conditional landing permit, or a certificate in duplicate issued by the consular officer of the United States at the port of departure stating that such alien seaman has been granted a visa for the purpose of proceeding to a port of the United States and specifying such port. Upon the arrival of such vessel at a port of the United States the master or commanding officer thereof shall deliver one duplicate of each such certificate to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or if there be no such officer at such port, to the customs officer in charge at such port, and shall deliver the other duplicate of each such certificate to the immigrant inspector in charge at the last port of departure from the United States. Any master or commanding officer who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers from the port of arrival if located there at the time of the application for clearance, or from any other port to which such vessel may thereafter proceed, until the master or commanding officer of such vessel has delivered to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the duplicate certificates required by this section to be delivered to the immigrant inspector in charge at such port. Any master or commanding officer who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The Attorney General may, upon the application of the master or commanding officer of any vessel, cancel any certificate issued under the provisions of this section if the alien seaman named therein is employed on board such vessel, and may require the deposit with the collector of customs of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of any fine which may be imposed upon such alien seaman under the provisions of this section. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the penalty to be imposed upon the master or commanding officer of the vessel, but such determination shall be made with due diligence. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty imposed by this section, or any part thereof, or any bond or part thereof, or may cancel any bond, upon such terms as he may deem just. The provisions of this section shall apply to all foreign seamen who may land temporarily in the United States solely in pursuance of their calling as bona fide members of the crew of any vessel arriving at a port of the United States, and who are destined to a foreign port: Provided, That the Attorney General may, upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, waive the provisions of this section in the case of seamen employed on vessels regularly plying between ports of the United States and foreign contiguous territory, and may by regulation provide for the addition to crews of vessels of such number of alien seamen as may be necessary to supply temporary vacancies. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, the Canal Zone, the Republic of Panama, the Republic of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, or the British, French, or Netherland possessions in the West Indies adjacent to the United States), or any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, the Canal Zone, the Republic of Panama, the Republic of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, or the British, French, or Netherland possessions in the West Indies adjacent to the United States), or on board any vessel solely plying between ports of the United States, unless there is on board such vessel at the time of her departure from each port at which she loads cargo or passengers destined to a port in the United States a certificate in duplicate issued by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization or such officer as he may designate, stating that such alien seaman has been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence or has been granted a conditional landing permit, or a certificate in duplicate issued by the consular officer of the United States at the port of departure stating that such alien seaman has been granted a visa for the purpose of proceeding to a port of the United States and specifying such port. Upon the arrival of such vessel at a port of the United States the master or commanding officer thereof shall deliver one duplicate of each such certificate to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or if there be no such officer at such port, to the customs officer in charge at such port, and shall deliver the other duplicate of each such certificate to the immigrant inspector in charge at the last port of departure from the United States. Any master or commanding officer who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty imposed by this section, or any part thereof, or any bond or part thereof, or may cancel any bond, upon such terms as he may deem just. The provisions of this section shall apply to all foreign seamen who may land temporarily in the United States solely in pursuance of their calling as bona fide members of the crew of any vessel arriving at a port of the United States, and who are destined to a foreign port: Provided, That the Attorney General may, upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, waive the provisions of this section in the case of seamen employed on vessels regularly plying between ports of the United States and foreign contiguous territory, and may by regulation provide for the addition to crews of vessels of such number of alien seamen as may be necessary to supply temporary vacancies. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

(a) The master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of any vessel (other than a vessel of war of any foreign nation or an aircraft) arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, the Canal Zone, the Republic of Panama, the Republic of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, or the British, French, or Netherland possessions in the West Indies adjacent to the United States), or any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, Bermuda, the Bahama Islands, the Canal Zone, the Republic of Panama, the Republic of Haiti, the Dominican Republic, or the British, French, or Netherland possessions in the West Indies adjacent to the United States), or on board any vessel solely plying between ports of the United States, shall before the departure of such vessel from a port of the United States deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or if there be no such officer at such port, to the customs officer in charge at such port, a manifest or list or passenger list containing such information with respect to each alien seaman employed on such vessel, departing from the United States, as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, and shall produce each such alien seaman for examination by the immigrant inspector at the time of the departure of such vessel from such port, or if any such alien seaman has been taken ashore for medical treatment, by the immigrant inspector at the hospital where he is being treated. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or last contiguous to such port of arrival, a description of each such alien seaman employed on such vessel, departing from the United States, as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, and shall produce each such alien seaman for examination by the immigrant inspector at the time of the arrival of such vessel at such port, or if any such alien seaman has been taken ashore for medical treatment, by the immigrant inspector at the hospital where he is being treated. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or last contiguous to such port of arrival, a list containing the name of all alien seamen employed on such vessel, departing from the United States, and shall produce each such alien seaman for examination by the immigrant inspector at the time of the departure of such vessel from such port, or if any such alien seaman has been taken ashore for medical treatment, by the immigrant inspector at the hospital where he is being treated. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall deliver to each such alien seaman, on the vessel or at the hospital, before the departure of such vessel from such port, a certificate containing such information as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, and shall require each such alien seaman to present such certificate to the immigration officer at each port at which such seaman lands in the United States. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall deliver to the immigrant inspector in charge at the port of arrival, or last contiguous to such port of arrival, a list containing the name of all alien seamen employed on such vessel, departing from the United States, and shall produce each such alien seaman for examination by the immigrant inspector at the time of the departure of such vessel from such port, or if any such alien seaman has been taken ashore for medical treatment, by the immigrant inspector at the hospital where he is being treated. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall deliver to each such alien seaman, on the vessel or at the hospital, before the departure of such vessel from such port, a certificate containing such information as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, and shall require each such alien seaman to present such certificate to the immigration officer at each port at which such seaman lands in the United States. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall pay for the maintenance of each such alien seaman while detained on board, but shall not be deprived of the right of the alien seaman to the privilege of shore leave. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall pay the cost of the removal of each such alien seaman who is ordered deported, unless the owner of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived shall have given a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of such cost, or unless such alien seaman is a member of the crew of a vessel which will leave port within twenty-four hours after the arrival of such vessel and such alien seaman deserts before the departure of such vessel. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee shall pay to the owner of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman ordered deported, who is not a member of the crew of such vessel, the cost of the transportation of such alien seaman from the United States to the country to which he is deported, unless such alien seaman was employed on such vessel with the consent of the master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee thereof, or unless such alien seaman shall have been allowed to land temporarily for medical treatment, or because he is destitute or likely to become a public charge, or unless the owner of such vessel shall have given a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment of such cost. Such master, commanding officer, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of any vessel bringing an alien seaman to the United States who refuses to allow such alien seaman to land, or who fails to detain such alien seaman on board, or who fails to deliver such alien seaman to the proper immigration officer at the time and place of departure of such vessel from the United States, or who fails to pay the cost of such alien seaman's removal, or who fails to perform any other duty required by this section, or who refuses to comply with the request of any immigration officer to detain any alien seaman on board, or who connives at or abets the unlawful landing in the United States of any alien seaman, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty imposed by this section, or any part thereof, or any bond or part thereof, or may cancel any bond, upon such terms as he may deem just. The provisions of this section shall apply to all foreign seamen who may land temporarily in the United States solely in pursuance of their calling as bona fide members of the crew of any vessel arriving at a port of the United States, and who are destined to a foreign port: Provided, That the Attorney General may, upon the recommendation of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, waive the provisions of this section in the case of seamen employed on vessels regularly plying between ports of the United States and foreign contiguous territory, and may by regulation provide for the addition to crews of vessels of such number of alien seamen as may be necessary to supply temporary vacancies. Any master or commanding officer who violates any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any penalty imposed by this section, or any part thereof, or any bond or part thereof, or may cancel any bond, upon such terms as he may deem just. SEC. 36. That aliens arriving at ports of the United States in the possession of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof, who shall be certified by the boards of special inquiry to be suffering from a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease, shall be detained at the port of arrival until they can be cured or until the danger of contagion has passed, and such aliens shall be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of aliens who become public charges within three years after their entry into the United States: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not be enforced against any alien who was convicted of a purely political offense.

SEC. 37. That the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, shall establish such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the proper execution of the provisions of this Act, and shall prescribe the forms of reports, entries, and other papers to be made and kept in pursuance thereof.

SEC. 38. That the Commissioner General of Immigration shall have charge of all matters relating to the execution of this Act, and may, in his discretion, assign to any immigrant inspector or to any other officer or employee of the Bureau of Immigration such duties in connection therewith as he may deem expedient.

SEC. 39. That the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, shall establish such regulations, prescribe such forms of bond, notice, and procedure, and issue such instructions as he may deem necessary and proper to carry into effect the provisions of this Act.

SEC. 40. That the Commissioner General of Immigration shall annually report to the Secretary of Labor his doings and proceedings under the provisions of this Act, and such report shall be laid before Congress and printed for the use of Congress.

SEC. 41. That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, establish a system of boards of special inquiry, to consist of not more than five members each, and may detail officers of the Department of Labor, officers of the Public Health Service, officers of the Customs Service, officers of the Immigration Service, or officers of the Consular Service, for service from time to time on such boards. The Secretary of Labor may also, in his discretion, appoint boards of special inquiry, to consist of not more than five members each, from the citizens of the United States at any place outside the United States where an immigrant inspector is not stationed, for the purpose of examining aliens coming to the United States. Boards of special inquiry shall have authority to administer oaths and to take evidence touching the right of aliens to enter the United States, and shall perform such other duties as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor may employ such stenographers, clerks, and other assistants as he may deem necessary to perform the duties imposed upon boards of special inquiry, and may make such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary and proper for the conduct of their proceedings.

SEC. 42. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (other than from foreign contiguous territory) any alien not in possession of a valid unexpired immigration visa and other documentation as required by section 13 of this Act, shall be required to take such alien back to the country from which he came or to the country in which he embarked, or to any country which may be designated by such alien and which will accept him, at the option of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while he is detained in the United States and of his return shall be paid by the owner of the vessel bringing him. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to take back any such alien, or the payment of the cost of maintenance and return, unless such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall deposit sufficient funds to pay such cost, or shall furnish security therefor approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing, refund to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel the head tax paid by any alien who is in the United States at the time of the deportation of such alien, if such vessel is certified to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located at the time of the deportation of such alien as having been specially chartered by such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer for the purpose of bringing such alien to the United States.

(b) Any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States under the immigration visa required by section 13 of this Act, who shall be ordered deported from the United States, shall be deported to the country in which he was born or of which he was a subject at the time of his embarkation at a foreign port for the United States, unless the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on board of which he arrived shall pay to the Attorney General the sum of $10 for each alien seaman so deported, and the Attorney General may, in his discretion, refund to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel the head tax paid by any alien seaman who is deported from the United States within four months after the date of his entry into the United States, but no such refund shall be made in the case of any alien who was a member of the crew of a vessel which has been libeled for desertion.

(c) If the Attorney General shall not have received notice of the arrival of any vessel on which any alien seaman has been employed, at any port of the United States, within five days after the date of the departure of such vessel from such port, he may refund the head tax paid by such alien seaman, or such portion thereof as he may deem proper, upon the production of such evidence as he may require that such alien seaman has been deported within the time prescribed by law.

(d) That all alien seamen who shall not be admitted into the United States shall be deported as provided in this section, section 19, and section 20 hereof.

Such vessel shall not be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to take back any such alien, or the payment of the cost of maintenance and return, unless such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall deposit sufficient funds to pay such cost, or shall furnish security therefor approved by the Secretary of Labor. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excepted from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place if upon the day of the vessel's departure therefrom such alien seaman is employed on board any vessel in the United States engaged in the coastwise trade, or is employed on board any vessel in the transportation of merchandise between ports in the United States, or in the fisheries, or is employed in any capacity on board any vessel other than the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, shall be deported to the country whence he came to the United States, at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the Secretary of Labor shall in his discretion otherwise permit: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, permit any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place to remain in the United States for the purpose of performing duty on board such vessel during her stay in port, and may, in like manner, permit any alien seaman employed on board any vessel which shall arrive in the United States to depart therein to any foreign port or place other than a port or place in contiguous territory or adjacent islands, unless such alien seaman is otherwise ineligible for admission into the United States: Provided further, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, permit any alien seaman employed on board any vessel which shall arrive in the United States from any foreign port or place to depart therefrom on board any vessel bound for any port or place in contiguous territory or adjacent islands, unless such alien seaman is otherwise ineligible for admission into the United States or unless the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of such vessel shall have reported the desertion of such alien seaman prior to the departure of such vessel from the United States. Any alien seaman who shall depart from the United States in violation of the provisions of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Any master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse to pay the cost of deporting any alien seaman employed on board such vessel, when required so to do by the Secretary of Labor, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to pay the cost of deporting any alien seaman employed on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure shall have been notified by the Secretary of Labor that no such cost has been incurred, or that bond has been given to insure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such refund to be made as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens who arrive in the United States before or after the enactment hereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place, or that he was employed by the consignee, master, or the owner on board any vessel in violation of the provisions of this section, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such alien seaman upon the vessel on which he arrived, and such consignee, master, or owner shall be liable to the penalty provided in the case of failure to deport such alien seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a foreign government refuses or unduly delays the issuance of any document or documents necessary for the deportation of any alien seaman, or refuses to accept such alien seaman into its territory, the Attorney General may cause such alien seaman to be removed to any country which he may designate which is willing to accept such alien seaman into its territory, and such alien seaman shall thereupon be relieved from all further liability to the owner of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States and to the master, commanding officer, purser, and consignee of such vessel. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, master, consignee, or agent of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be responsible for the deportation of each alien coming in the United States on board such vessel, and for the payment of the head tax provided for by section 2 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 874, 8 U. S. C. 171), unless such alien is duly admitted by an immigration officer or is lawfully entitled to enter the United States under an existing treaty between the country of which he is a subject or citizen and the United States. Any such owner, charterer, master, consignee, or agent who shall refuse to pay the cost of maintaining and deporting any such alien, or the head tax, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien in respect of whom such refusal occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to pay the cost of maintaining and deporting any alien, or the head tax, or while the master refuses to deposit sufficient funds for the purpose with the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such refund to be made as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens who arrive in the United States before or after the enactment hereof.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place, or that he was employed by the consignee, master, or the owner on board any vessel in violation of the provisions of this section, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport such alien seaman upon the vessel on which he arrived, and such consignee, master, or owner shall be liable to the penalty provided in the case of failure to deport such alien seaman.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a foreign government refuses or unduly delays the issuance of any document or documents necessary for the deportation of any alien seaman, or refuses to accept such alien seaman into its territory, the Attorney General may cause such alien seaman to be removed to any country which he may designate which is willing to accept such alien seaman into its territory, and such alien seaman shall thereupon be relieved from all further liability to the owner of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States and to the master, commanding officer, purser, and consignee of such vessel. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 10. No alien seaman employed from any vessel into the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, until the master of such vessel has furnished a bond or deposited money sufficient in the opinion of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival to guarantee the return of such alien seaman on board such vessel or another vessel owned by the same interests upon the departure of such vessel from the United States, or has obtained a certificate from the Secretary of Labor waiving the requirement of such bond or deposit of money. Such bond shall be in a sum not exceeding $300, and such deposit of money shall be in a sum not exceeding $1,000, for each alien seaman in respect of whom such bond or deposit is required. The Secretary of Labor may prescribe rules governing the cancellation of bonds or deposits of money required by this section. Any suit or action based upon such bond or deposit must be instituted within two years after the date of the departure of the vessel from the United States in connection with which such bond or deposit was required, and not thereafter.

SEC. 16. (a) The owner, master, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman (except an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence) shall be severally liable to the United States for a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman who is employed on board such vessel in any capacity at the port of arrival, or who is discharged in any port of the United States without the consent of the immigration officer in charge of the port, or who fails to deliver such seaman on board prior to the departure of the vessel from such port, or who fails to report the illness or hospitalization of such seaman before the departure of the vessel from such port, or who fails to detain such seaman on board when ordered so to do by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or who fails to report the desertion of such seaman within forty-eight hours after such desertion or to deposit such seaman if required by the medical examiners).

(b) Clearance may be withheld from any vessel the owner, master, agent, consignee, or charterer of which is liable to a penalty under subdivision (a) of this section until the payment of such penalty has been determined and provided for, or a sufficient bond given to assure such payment.

(c) Penalties incurred under this section may be remitted or mitigated by the Secretary of Labor upon such terms as he shall think proper.

(d) The Attorney General shall have the power to prescribe rules governing the application of this section and the remission and mitigation of penalties hereunder.

SEC. 17. (a) Any alien seaman who shall fail to report for medical examination when so required by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or within five days after notice by such officer to report for such examination at any other time during the period of his temporary admission, or who shall fail to report for such examination when ordered by the Secretary of Labor in the case of any alien seaman who has been granted extensions of his temporary admission beyond the period originally fixed by the immigration officer, shall be deemed to be a person who has remained in the United States in excess of the period for which he was admitted or permitted to land, and shall be subject to deportation as provided in section 19 hereof.

(b) Any alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States within the period for which he was granted temporary admission, or any alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States within five days after he has been ordered to do so by the Secretary of Labor in the case of any alien seaman who has been granted extensions of his temporary admission beyond the period originally fixed by the immigration officer, shall be deemed to be a person who has remained in the United States in excess of the period for which he was admitted or permitted to land, and shall be subject to deportation as provided in section 19 hereof.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been reimbursed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, or injury requiring such treatment, or for the purpose of obtaining surgical or medical treatment, or because of shipwreck, or other casualty, or for the purpose of rendering assistance in the saving of life, or for such other reasons as may be deemed sufficient by the Secretary of Labor, and then only under such conditions as he may prescribe: Provided, That any alien seaman employed on any such vessel shall be entitled to enter the United States solely for the purpose of and while in transit to or from a vessel in which he intends to depart from or arrived in the United States, and shall depart therein within such period of time as may be specified by the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry, unless prevented from so doing by illness or other cause beyond his control, which shall be certified by the United States medical officer at the port of entry. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States, except as provided in this section, or who shall remain therein for a longer time than specified by the immigration officer in charge at the port of entry, or who shall be found in the United States in violation of this section, shall be deported in the manner provided by sections 19 and 20 hereof, to the country whence he came, or to the country from which he last departed for the United States, or to any other country which may consent to his entry, at the option of the Secretary of Labor. This section, as amended, shall apply to all boarding stations independent to June 2, 1940.

(c) If the Attorney General shall find that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship, such alien may be granted a conditional landing for the period of time necessary to effect his departure on a vessel other than that on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to the medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alien's departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. ($43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 206.)

SEC. 35. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or any person who has been employed on board such vessel since such vessel left the immigration officer in charge at the port of or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to report such seaman employed on such vessel who has been certified by such immigration officer or the medical examiner), at the time of such inspection or to report such seaman as required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pursuant to the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or to a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such fine, or any part thereof, upon the payment of not less than $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens unless independent of the terms 2, 1940.

(b) Upon such an alien seaman did not appear upon the onboard manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was refused by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport after readmittance by the immigration officer in charge of the port at which such vessel arrived in the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such payment shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, or adjacent islands, or who arrives in the United States as the result of the severance of connection of such seaman with the vessel upon which he arrived, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of an emergency, or for such period of time as the Attorney General may prescribe, but not to exceed thirty days, or except to secure transportation to the country whence he came, or to a country which will accept him, or under such rules and regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe, or except as provided in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 878; 8 U.S.C. 151), and except that seamen employed on vessels touching at Canadian ports or at ports in the Canal Zone, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands may be permitted to land in the United States during the period their vessels are in port without being required to secure individual permits, but the Attorney General may by regulation require such seamen to be listed on the vessel's manifest and may exclude or deport any seaman who comes within any of the classes enumerated in section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 878; 8 U.S.C. 151), and any seaman who is treated for any disease or medical condition which existed prior to the vessel's departure for the United States may be required to be left behind for treatment at the discretion of the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival. Any seaman who fails to remain with his vessel or to depart therewith when required to do so by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That nothing contained in this section shall be construed to require the detention in the United States of any alien seaman for a period longer than is necessary for the purpose of his departure on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on any other vessel which may be available for his departure, except that no seaman shall be permitted to land in the United States during the period his vessel is in port unless a sufficient number of the crew of such vessel, determined by the master or person in charge of the vessel, shall remain on board while such vessel remains in port to assure the departure of such seaman: Provided further, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application to any seaman of any provision of this section if such application would result in undue hardship.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 30. That when written or printed evidence may be required by the provisions of this Act as to the nationality or right to enter the United States of any alien seaman, the same may be furnished by the certificate of the master or person in charge of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived, which certificate shall be in such form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Commerce, and shall contain such information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Commerce, to enable the proper immigration officer to identify such alien seaman and to determine the admissibility of such alien seaman into the United States. Such certificate shall be delivered by the master or person in charge of the vessel to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival before the vessel shall be admitted to entry or granted clearance, and shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated in favor of the alien seaman. Any master or person in charge of any vessel who refuses or neglects to deliver such certificate, or who delivers a certificate containing any statement which he knows to be false, or who fails to deliver to any immigrant inspector any alien seaman employed on the vessel of which he is master or person in charge, shall be fined not more than $1,000 for each such offense. Any master or person in charge of any vessel who shall land or permit to land any alien seaman from said vessel at any port in the United States, except in case of medical treatment or emergency or for such period of time as the immigration officer in charge at the port may prescribe, or who shall refuse or fail to deliver on board such vessel before departure from the United States any alien seaman employed on board when required so to do by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, or who shall refuse or fail to detain on board any alien seaman employed on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs: No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such sum or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit same. [illegible] $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs when such seaman is in the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper. The section as amended shall apply to all penalties arising subsequent to June 2, 1924.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States in accordance with the conditions of his permit to land temporarily or to await the departure of his vessel, or who shall remain in the United States for a period longer than that for which he was admitted pursuant to the immigration laws, or who shall come ashore at any port in the United States without having been granted a permit so to do, or who shall go from one vessel to another without having been granted permission so to do by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, shall be deemed a deserter, shall be taken into custody upon the warrant of the Attorney General and deported in the manner provided for the deportation of other aliens. Any such alien seaman who shall refuse to be deported when ordered so to be by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, or who shall escape from custody after having been taken into custody for deportation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place at the time of the enactment of this Act, or thereafter, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of an emergency, or for such length of time as the Attorney General may prescribe, or for the purpose of and while actually in transit to be discharged in pursuance of the provisions of section 16 of this Act, or to be treated in accordance with the provisions of section 20 of this Act, or to be deported in pursuance of law, at any time within five years after the entry of such alien, upon the certification by the Secretary of Labor to the Secretary of State and to the Attorney General of the United States that due diligence has been exercised to ascertain the whereabouts of such alien and that he is not employed on board any vessel engaged in the foreign or coastwise trade of the United States, and that reasonable opportunity has been given to secure the removal of such alien from the United States by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which such alien arrived in the United States or by the owner of any vessel belonging to the same nationality as such alien, and that such master, agent, owner, or consignee has failed or refused to remove such alien from the United States. Any alien seaman who shall land in violation of this section shall be taken into custody upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor and shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, the Republic of Panama, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands of the United States, or the islands adjacent to the continental United States, other than the Philippine Islands, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such fault occurs. Upon such terms as the Attorney General may prescribe not to the determination of the question of whether or not a fine or penalty has been incurred, or the amount thereof, or the remission or mitigation thereof, shall be final and conclusive. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or cancel any fine or penalty incurred under this section, or any bond given to secure the payment thereof, if he is satisfied that such fine or penalty was incurred without fault on the part of the master, owner, agent, charterer, or consignee of the vessel, and that reasonable efforts were made to prevent the illegal landing of such alien.

(b) Every alien seaman who shall not depart from the United States as a member of the crew of the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel in the service to which he belongs, or who shall land in violation of law, shall be deported in the manner provided in section 20 of this Act. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of a relationship by marriage to a person residing in the United States, he may grant such seaman a temporary residence in the United States, subject to such conditions as he may prescribe, for such time as he may specify. Such temporary residence shall not be granted to any alien seaman who is a member of a class of aliens ineligible to citizenship, unless the spouse of such alien seaman is a citizen of the United States. Nothing contained in this subdivision shall be construed to entitle such alien seaman to admission to the United States for permanent residence. (43 Stat. 164–165, 8 U. S. C. 167 (a), 167 (c).)

That alien arrivals at any seaport in the United States from any foreign port or place in charge of the master, mate, purser, surgeon, or other officer of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place, shall, before any such alien shall be allowed to land in the United States, be examined by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service, under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, as to whether such alien belongs to any of the classes excluded by law from admission into the United States; and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor shall have the power, and it shall be his duty, to establish such rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, as may be necessary and proper to carry out the provisions of this Act relating to the examination, admission, detention, and deportation of aliens: Provided, That the Secretary of Commerce and Labor may, in his discretion, except from the operation of the provisions of this section aliens seeking to enter the United States solely for the purpose of performing labor or service as members of the crew of any vessel arriving at a port of the United States, and may prescribe rules governing the admission of such aliens, and the detention on board vessel or at such port of such aliens as he may deem necessary pending the arrival of such vessels at such port for the departure thereof.

SEC. 29. That no alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, or any alien seaman who may be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily and under such immigration officer as may be designated for the purpose by the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, and such seaman shall be required to depart on board the vessel or other vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel leaving a port in the same district within such time as may be specified by the immigration officer, not exceeding five days, unless further detained by the immigration officer for special cause, not exceeding thirty days, or unless prevented from departing by sickness or injury certified by the medical officer of the port. Any such alien seaman who shall remain in the United States beyond the time allowed by the immigration officer, or who shall go from on board the vessel or other place designated by the immigration officer without the permission of such officer, shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Any such alien seaman who shall refuse to depart on the vessel or other vessel or place designated by the immigration officer, or who shall secrete himself on board, shall be deported as soon as discovered, all costs in every case of deportation of such alien seaman to be certified by the immigration officer. Any such alien seaman who shall desert while in the United States shall be liable to imprisonment for a period not exceeding six months, in addition to deportation as herein provided. Any master, commander, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $500 for each such offense, and may also be refused clearance papers for the vessel from any port of the United States while any such fine remains unpaid. Any such alien seaman who refuses to work on board the vessel on which he arrives in the United States or on board any vessel on which he is afterward employed, when ordered to do so by the master, officers, or crew of such vessel, shall be punished by imprisonment for not more than three months.

SEC. 30. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the presence of such disease, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance papers after such determination until the fine provided for herein has been paid or a bond given for the payment thereof in such sum as may be required by the Attorney General, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the presence of such disease, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of such fine or bond, or such part thereof as may be required by the Attorney General. Such fine shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in the district court of the United States for the district in which the vessel may be found. The Attorney General may remit such fine in whole or in part if it appears that no fault or negligence on the part of the master, officers, crew, or owners of the vessel has contributed to the violation of the provisions of this section, and that the vessel has sailed from the last port without unnecessary delay and with intent to proceed to her destination. The Attorney General shall make report to Congress in December of each year of the cases in which fines have been remitted and the reasons therefor.

(b) If the Attorney General shall deem that any fine provided for in this section ought to be remitted, on account of the inability of the master to pay the fine or the smallness of the amount of the culpability of the master, owners, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, he may remit such fine, or any part thereof, upon the payment of the wages of the alien seaman in respect of whom the fine was incurred, and the cost of his maintenance and return to the country to which he belongs, or such part of such wages as he may deem sufficient, and such remission shall be a full discharge of such fine or part thereof remitted.

He may also order the destruction of such vessel, with all her tackle, apparel, furniture, and cargo, or any part thereof, which may be infected with such disease, when in his opinion such destruction is necessary. (b) Every alien seaman entering the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be examined by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and inspected by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), unless such alien seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), unless such alien seaman on board with such inspection or to depart such seaman if detained by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $13,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers during the detention of any such alien seaman, or while the time limitation during which clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance papers may be granted by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. This section, as amended, shall apply to all deportable aliens employed on vessels arriving in the United States after June 2, 1924.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily or for the purpose of medical treatment by the immigration officer or the Attorney General, to obtain at depot after readmission by the immigration officer in charge at a seaport, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart with such vessel on which he arrived, unless such alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived, has been granted by the Attorney General a landing permit, or unless clearance papers have been granted to such vessel as in the case of alien seamen employed on such vessel, within the period of twenty-four hours after the departure of such vessel, and such alien seaman has been reported by the master of such vessel to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart with such vessel, and the master, purser, consignee, or agent of such vessel shall be liable to the penalty provided in subdivision (a) of this section, as amended, and shall not be granted clearance papers for the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance papers until such penalty has been paid or the payment thereof secured to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that any deportation of an alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of any relationship by marriage or family existing in the United States, he may waive such deportation, but such waiver shall not affect the right to collect the fine provided for in subdivision (a) of this section, as amended, unless clearance papers have been granted to such vessel as in the case of alien seamen employed on such vessel, within the period of twenty-four hours after the departure of such vessel, and such alien seaman has been reported by the master of such vessel to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart with such vessel, and the master, purser, consignee, or agent of such vessel shall be liable to the penalty provided in subdivision (a) of this section, as amended, and shall not be granted clearance papers for the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance papers until such penalty has been paid or the payment thereof secured to the satisfaction of the Attorney General. SEC. 150.18. Limit of alien employees: when clearance of vessel denied. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the limitations required by section 18 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 886; 8 U. S. C. 171), have been complied with, and the master, purser, consignee, or agent of such vessel has been furnished with a certificate by the immigration officer in charge at the port of departure that such requirements have been complied with, or that the vessel is not required to comply therewith. Applications for clearance papers shall be made in writing by the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel, and shall state the number of aliens employed on such vessel, the number of such aliens who have been granted permits to land at such port, and the number of such aliens who have been granted permits to land at other ports in the United States. Clearance papers will be withheld if the number of aliens employed exceeds the number who have been granted permits to land, unless the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel shall have applied for permits for such aliens to land at other ports in the United States and such permits have been refused. Clearance papers will be withheld until the expiration of the period of twenty-four hours after the departure of such vessel from any port or place in the United States, if the master, purser, consignee, or agent of such vessel has been notified by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that any alien employee who was not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave the port thereon at the time of the departure of such vessel, is a deserter from such vessel, unless it is established to the satisfaction of such immigration officer that such alien employee was prevented from leaving the United States by reason of sickness, or unless such alien employee has been granted a landing permit by the Attorney General, pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or a true report is not made as above provided: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine. (39 Stat. 888, 889; 8 U. S. C. 171.)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or transiting through the United States from any place outside thereof, or arriving in the United States from any place in the Panama Canal Zone or the Canal Zone, or the possessions of the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or detained in the United States by the immigration officers, or allowed to land temporarily under bond, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the deportation of any such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, except from foreign contiguous territory, or any vessel arriving in the Panama Canal Zone or the Canal Zone, or the possessions of the United States, except from foreign contiguous territory, shall be responsible for the proper maintenance while in the United States of every alien seaman employed on board any such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or has failed to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same in whole or in part under such terms and conditions as he may deem just and proper.

The section as amended shall apply to all seamen arriving after the date of the enactment of this Act, but shall not apply in respect of any vessel which shall have sailed prior to such date. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 180.)

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was temporarily permitted by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport alien seamen by such vessel, unless such alien seaman or the vessel on which he arrived would be subject to detention under the provisions of section 16 of this Act, or unless such vessel shall have been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the Attorney General.

Any such seaman who shall land in the United States without having been granted a visa or permit to land temporarily, or who shall remain beyond the period for which he was granted shore leave, or who shall go from the vessel at any port to which he was granted shore leave to any place in the United States other than the immigrant station designated by the Commissioner of Immigration, or who shall fail to report at such station for examination before proceeding to any place in the United States, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of this Act. SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the adjacent islands shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the safekeeping of such alien from the immigration officer at the port of arrival and for the administrative examination thereof, unless and until the master or agent of the vessel has delivered to such immigration officer a manifest, in triplicate, and in such form as the Attorney General may require, containing such information with respect to each such alien and the intended journey within the United States as may be required by the Attorney General at the time of the vessel's departure from the last foreign port or place or, in the case of aliens coming from contiguous territory, at the time of application for admission. Any master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such manifest in connection with the vessel's arrival or departure shall pay to the collector of customs at each port of entry a penalty of $300 for each alien concerning whom such information is required and not furnished, unless it is proved to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that the master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee could not have ascertained such information. Any master, agent, owner, charterer, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such manifest in connection with the vessel's departure or who shall deliver a manifest which he knows to be false or incorrect in any particular shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or reduce any penalty incurred under this section, as he may deem proper.

(b) Every alien arriving at a seaport of the United States shall be examined by an immigration officer, but such examination shall not be begun until the vessel has been properly docked and the immigration officer has been given access to the vessel. Any alien who has been ordered excluded from admission and who makes application within ten days after a decision has been rendered in his case for a hearing before a board of special inquiry shall be entitled to such hearing. Pending the final determination of any such case, the alien shall be detained in such manner as the Attorney General may direct. Such decision, if favorable to the admission of any alien, shall be subject to such conditions as the Attorney General may prescribe. Such decision shall be based only on the evidence adduced at the hearing and shall be final unless reversed on appeal to the Attorney General. A record of the evidence taken before the board and of the decision thereon shall be kept. Any such alien shall be entitled to be represented by counsel at such hearing, but the right to counsel shall not be construed as requiring that counsel be furnished at the expense of the United States. The decision of the board shall be subject to review by the Attorney General in such manner and under such rules as he shall prescribe.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that a master has failed to comply with any of the provisions of this section or any regulations issued thereunder, or has violated any conditions on which an alien seaman was granted shore leave, he may, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, cancel the clearance of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived and refuse clearance papers to the master of such vessel for any subsequent port until he has furnished a bond in such amount, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman, as the Attorney General may require to assure the return of such alien seaman for hearing or removal from the United States, as the case may be. Such bond shall be canceled when the alien seaman has been duly accounted for in accordance with such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe. (43 Stat. 161–163; 8 U. S. C. 191 (a), (b), (c).)

(a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone any alien who has been refused a visa by a consular officer, or who is excluded from admission to the United States by any immigration officer, shall immediately remove such alien from the United States to the country from which he came, or to the country in which is located the port from which he embarked, or to any country willing to receive him, other than Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, or an island adjacent to the United States, at the option of the master, commanding officer, purser, or agent of the vessel. Pending such removal, the alien shall be detained on board the vessel or at such place as may be designated by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and the cost of such detention, including maintenance, shall be paid by the master, commanding officer, purser, or agent of the vessel. Such cost shall be a lien upon the vessel, and no clearance shall be granted the vessel while such lien remains undischarged, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the cost of detention upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such cost, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The amounts of fines and penalties imposed by or pursuant to this section shall constitute a lien upon the vessel with respect to which they were incurred, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in the United States district court for the district in which she may be found or into which she first arrives. Clearance may be refused any vessel the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of which is liable to pay fines or penalties imposed by this section, or any vessel concerning which there is reasonable cause to believe that the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer is guilty of or has been guilty of failing to comply with the requirements of this section, and any vessel so detained shall not be granted clearance while detained for any cause aforesaid by reason of failure of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof to comply with the requirements of this section, but the Secretary of Commerce may, in his discretion and upon the recommendation of the Commissioner General of Immigration, cancel any fine, or remit any penalty, provided for in this section, and may direct the refund of any money collected in connection therewith.

SEC. 38. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, or the Republic of Haiti, or departing from the United States for any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, or the Republic of Haiti, who knowingly brings to the United States any alien seaman who has been refused a certificate of discharge as provided in section 32 of this Act, or who knowingly refuses to receive on board his vessel any alien seaman who has been ordered to be left behind by the immigration officer at the port of departure, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman.

(b) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Newfoundland, or the Republic of Haiti who fails to deliver to the boarding officer at the port of arrival the certificate of discharge of each alien seaman required by section 32 of this Act, or who fails to deliver to the boarding officer at the port of departure any alien seaman ordered on board for such departure by the immigration officer in charge at such port, or who fails to report the illness, hospitalization, death, desertion, or discharge of any alien seaman, or the cause thereof, or who refuses or neglects to deliver to the boarding officer at the port of departure the money or property of any deserting alien seaman required by section 34 of this Act, or who refuses or neglects to pay the tax imposed by section 35 of this Act, or who refuses or neglects to pay the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of February 18, 1903, as amended by section 1 of the Act of February 20, 1907, or who refuses or neglects to pay the tax imposed by section 1 of the Act of February 5, 1917, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. The amounts of fines and penalties imposed by or pursuant to this section shall constitute a lien upon the vessel with respect to which they were incurred, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in the United States district court for the district in which she may be found or into which she first arrives. Clearance may be refused any vessel the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of which is liable to pay fines or penalties imposed by this section, or any vessel concerning which there is reasonable cause to believe that the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer is guilty of or has been guilty of failing to comply with the requirements of this section, and any vessel so detained shall not be granted clearance until such fines or penalties have been paid or their payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to obtain or depart after readmission by the immigration officer of the port of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure from any cause outside the control of the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, master, or crew of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to deport such alien seaman on such vessel, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in the United States district court for the district in which she may be found or into which she first arrives, and may be refused clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to the extent and under such conditions as may be prescribed by the regulations of the Attorney General, or unless such alien seaman is a member of the crew of a vessel arriving in the United States or any territory or possession thereof, and is in possession of a valid seaman's passport or other travel document satisfactory to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, and has been inspected by an immigration officer (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination and such immunization officer or the medical examiner), or unless such alien is in possession of a valid nonimmigrant visa and is destined to the United States to perform duties as an employee of the vessel on which he arrived and solely in connection with the operation of such vessel, or unless such alien is in possession of a valid nonimmigrant visa and is destined to the United States to join the vessel on which he arrived for the purpose of proceeding in such capacity to a foreign port to which such vessel is destined, and has been inspected by an immigration officer and found to be not inadmissible under the immigration laws. Any alien seaman who has been employed on board any vessel in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 hereof, and shall be ineligible to receive any certificate or document required by the immigration laws for any purpose, or to enter the United States as a seaman during the period of employment prohibited by this section. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

to which alien seamen may be assigned, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $30 for each alien seaman so assigned, shall pay to all persons signing articles with any alien seaman so assigned, and shall deduct the amount of such payment from the wages due such alien seaman. Such payment shall not relieve the master of the vessel on which he arrived from any duty or liability imposed upon him by law. Any payment made by the master of any vessel to any person in connection with the employment of any alien seaman, or deducted from the wages of any such alien seaman, shall be void as against the United States. Any person who violates any provision of this section, as amended, shall be liable to all penalties arising therefrom and the vessel involved shall be subject to seizure and forfeiture to the United States. Proof that any alien seaman did not appear upon the articles of such vessel as a member thereof, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien seaman on board. Any alien seaman who fails to report for duty at the time of departure of the vessel from any port of the United States, unless such failure occurs with the consent of the master of the vessel or which he arrived, or which he has subsequently joined, may be arrested without warrant by any immigration officer, and upon conviction before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman so failing to report, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any such alien seaman may be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, conditioned upon such alien seaman reporting for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States. Any such bond may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the event of the breach of the condition thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. (40 Stat. 562, 8 U. S. C. 140.)

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not have been reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien seaman on board the vessel on which he arrived at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such alien seaman shall prove to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was not due to his fault. Any alien seaman who fails to report for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such failure occurs with the consent of the master of the vessel on which he arrived, or which he has subsequently joined, may be arrested without warrant by any immigration officer, and upon conviction before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman so failing to report, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any such alien seaman may be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, conditioned upon such alien seaman reporting for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States. Any such bond may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the event of the breach of the condition thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. (40 Stat. 562, 8 U. S. C. 140.)

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not have been reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien seaman on board the vessel on which he arrived at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such alien seaman shall prove to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was not due to his fault. Any alien seaman who fails to report for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such failure occurs with the consent of the master of the vessel on which he arrived, or which he has subsequently joined, may be arrested without warrant by any immigration officer, and upon conviction before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman so failing to report, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any such alien seaman may be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, conditioned upon such alien seaman reporting for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States. Any such bond may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the event of the breach of the condition thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. (40 Stat. 562, 8 U. S. C. 140.)

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival their correct and true manifests of all persons on board such vessel, setting forth the number in the party's company, when and where they were respectively initiated to the United States, the purpose for which they severally came, whether they intend to become citizens thereof, whether they have been in prison or almshouse or supported by charity, whether they have a ticket through to their destination, whether they have the amount of money required by this Act in their possession, whether they have been previously refused admission to the United States or deported, whether they are coming in pursuance of a prearranged employment, and if so, the name and address of the person who has sent for them, the kind of work they are to perform, and the amount of money they have with them. Such manifests shall be prepared and delivered upon forms furnished by the Commissioner General of Immigration, and the owner, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel failing to deliver such manifests, or delivering manifests containing false statements, shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each person concerning whom such false statement is made, but no penalty shall be imposed for any omission of a person whose name does not appear on the list customarily used by the master in the ordinary course of the vessel's business: Provided, That the master shall not be required to include in the manifest the name of any person who is a bona fide member of the crew of the vessel and who continues in the employment of the vessel on the same voyage on which it arrives to the United States: Provided further, That the master shall not be required to include in the manifest the name of any person who is in possession of a valid nonimmigrant visa, unless such person is destined to the United States to perform duties as an employee of the vessel on which he arrived or to join the vessel at a port other than a port of first arrival in the United States for the purpose of proceeding in such capacity to a foreign port to which such vessel is destined, and has been inspected by an immigration officer and found to be not inadmissible under the immigration laws. Any alien seaman who has been employed on board any vessel in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 hereof, and shall be ineligible to receive any certificate or document required by the immigration laws for any purpose, or to enter the United States as a seaman during the period of employment prohibited by this section. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, or departing from the United States, (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

to which alien seamen may be assigned, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $30 for each alien seaman so assigned, shall pay to all persons signing articles with any alien seaman so assigned, and shall deduct the amount of such payment from the wages due such alien seaman. Such payment shall not relieve the master of the vessel on which he arrived from any duty or liability imposed upon him by law. Any payment made by the master of any vessel to any person in connection with the employment of any alien seaman, or deducted from the wages of any such alien seaman, shall be void as against the United States. Any person who violates any provision of this section, as amended, shall be liable to all penalties arising therefrom and the vessel involved shall be subject to seizure and forfeiture to the United States. Proof that any alien seaman did not appear upon the articles of such vessel as a member thereof, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver such alien seaman on board the vessel on which he arrived at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such alien seaman shall prove to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was not due to his fault. Any alien seaman who fails to report for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States, unless such failure occurs with the consent of the master of the vessel on which he arrived, or which he has subsequently joined, may be arrested without warrant by any immigration officer, and upon conviction before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman so failing to report, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any such alien seaman may be required to furnish a bond in the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, conditioned upon such alien seaman reporting for departure with the vessel on which he arrived, or such other vessel as may be designated by the immigration officer, at the time of departure of such vessel from the United States. Any such bond may be sued for and recovered by the United States in the event of the breach of the condition thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. (40 Stat. 562, 8 U. S. C. 140.)

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not have been reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter

SEC. 19. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, except temporarily for medical treatment or betterment, to enter such territory as an alien seaman, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment or betterment, to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor, and then only under such conditions as the Secretary may prescribe, and not for a longer period than the vessel is scheduled to remain in port, unless further detained by the authorities: Provided, That clearance papers of such vessel may be withheld pending the detention of such alien seaman. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in sections 19 and 20 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 171), and shall thereafter be refused admission to the United States. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse or neglect to detain any alien seaman pending the decision of the Secretary of Labor in any case in which such alien seaman is required by this section to be detained, or who shall refuse or neglect to report to the Secretary of Labor the name of any alien seaman who has been granted shore leave, or who has deserted, or who has been left behind on account of illness or injury, or who has been discharged from such vessel, or who has been lost sight of, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such offense: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of the deportation of any such alien seaman upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such tax, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, withdraw such deposit or bond upon the presentation of such evidence as may be satisfactory to him that such alien seaman has been regularly discharged from the vessel in accordance with the provisions of this section. This section as amended shall apply to all deportable aliens arriving on or after July 1, 1924.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from such foreign country, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart with the immigration officer at the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

VEERIFICATION OF THE MASTER OR COMMANDING OFFICER, OR FIRST OR SECOND OFFICER

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspectors boarding the vessel at the port of arrival. The list must be signed by the master, or other officer acting in his place, and the oath administered by the immigration officer at the port of arrival. Any person who willfully falsifies any statement in the list shall be deemed guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

Sec. 2. (a) The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a list containing the names of all persons on board such vessel, stating the nationality, last permanent residence, and destination of each such person who is to be landed in the United States, and the nationality, last permanent residence, and final destination of each such person who is in transit through the United States to a foreign country, and such additional information relative to each such person as may be required by the Attorney General. Such list shall be prepared in such manner and form and contain such additional particulars as may be prescribed by the Attorney General. The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel shall deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival a separate list covering persons coming to the United States at each subsequent port at which the vessel shall touch before coming to the United States. The Attorney General may waive the requirements of this section with respect to any vessel which touches at ports in the United States only incidentally during the course of a voyage between foreign ports.

(b) Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who refuses or fails to deliver the list required by subsection (a) of this section, or who refuses or fails to deliver such list at the time of the departure of the vessel from the last port outside the United States, or who refuses or fails to answer truthfully and completely to the best of his knowledge and belief any question relating to the persons on board such vessel propounded to him by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or who refuses or fails to detain on board any person when ordered to do so by the immigration officer at the port of arrival, or who refuses or fails to deliver on board such vessel for the purpose of examination by the immigration officer at the port of arrival any person on board such vessel, or who refuses or fails to assist the immigration officer in taking the list of persons on board such vessel, or who refuses or fails to deliver to the immigration officer at the port of arrival any person on board such vessel when required so to do, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers from the port of arrival pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such sum or any part thereof, unless there is deposited with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing made before the departure of such vessel from the port of arrival, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, or any such bond, in whole or in part, as he may deem just and proper. The action of the Attorney General in the premises shall be final.

(c) If the Attorney General shall so request, it shall be the duty of the district director in whose district any vessel arrives to refuse clearance papers to such vessel until the immigration officer at the port of arrival shall certify that the provisions of this section have been complied with.

(d) Every list required by subsection (a) of this section shall be prima facie evidence of the matters stated therein in any hearing before the Attorney General or a special inquiry officer.

(e) If the Attorney General shall so request, it shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place to deliver a like list or lists to the immigration officer at any port of departure in the United States, or at any port where such vessel touches in the United States for the purpose of taking on board additional persons destined to foreign countries.

(f) Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who refuses or fails to deliver such list or lists at the time of the departure of such vessel from the United States, or who refuses or fails to answer truthfully and completely to the best of his knowledge and belief any question relating to the persons on board such vessel propounded to him by the immigration officer at the port of departure, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of departure is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers from the port of departure pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such sum or any part thereof, unless there is deposited with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of departure is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing made before the departure of such vessel from the port of departure, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, or any such bond, in whole or in part, as he may deem just and proper. The action of the Attorney General in the premises shall be final.

(g) Every list required by subsection (a) of this section shall be prepared and filed with respect to each vessel as a separate list, and each such list shall be verified by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or by such other person as may be designated by the Attorney General, by the oath of the person verifying the same administered by the immigration officer at the port of arrival or departure, as the case may be. Each such list shall contain such additional information relative to each such person listed therein as may be required by the Attorney General.

(h) Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of this section with respect to any person on board such vessel shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each such person with respect to whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the liability to the payment of such sum or any part thereof, unless there is deposited with the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each such person with respect to whom such failure occurs, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing made before the departure of such vessel from the port of arrival, remit or cancel any such fine, or any part thereof, or any such bond, in whole or in part, as he may deem just and proper. The action of the Attorney General in the premises shall be final.

This section as amended shall apply to all vessels arriving subsequent to June 2, 1940.

(i) Every master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place who knowingly and willfully makes, causes to be made, or attempts to make any false statement in any list, affidavit, or other document required by this section shall be guilty of a felony and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $5,000 or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(j) The Attorney General may, in his discretion, remit any fine or penalty provided for by this section, or any part thereof, or any bond or part thereof, and may prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

(k) The Attorney General shall report annually to the Congress the number of persons who have failed to deliver lists required by this section, the number of persons who have been fined under this section, the number of persons who have been imprisoned under this section, and the number of persons who have been deported under this section.

(l) The Attorney General may, in his discretion, refuse clearance to any vessel which has failed to deliver lists required by this section, or to any vessel which has been operated in violation of this section.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That aliens arriving at the ports of the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel on which any alien shall arrive at any port of the United States to cause such alien to be detained on board such vessel or at such other place as may be designated by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival pending the completion of the physical and mental examination of such alien by the immigrant inspectors, and the decision of the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival as to the admissibility of such alien. Such detention shall be at the expense of the owner, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel if such alien is rejected for any cause within five years after the date of his entry into the United States, but if such alien becomes a public charge within one year after his entry from causes existing prior to his entry, the cost of his detention and of his return shall be borne by the owner, agent, consignee, or master of the vessel on which he arrived. Such detention may be in the immigrant station or elsewhere, as may be directed by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival, but all such detentions elsewhere than in the immigrant station shall be at the expense of the United States. Such detention shall be upon the order of the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival, which order shall state the cause for the detention. The conveyance or other means of transportation of any alien afforded relief from detention as provided in this section shall be subject to such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Commerce. Any person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each alien with respect to whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the admissibility of any alien whose detention on board or elsewhere is required under this section until the immigrant inspector in charge of the port shall have determined that sufficient funds have been deposited with the collector of customs of the customs district in which such port is located to pay the cost of such detention for the period of time required. In case sufficient funds shall not be deposited, the vessel upon which such alien arrived may be required by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival to depart forthwith from the United States without landing any passengers thereof at any port or place in the United States. Any such vessel having departed, and being thereafter found within the limits of the United States, may be seized and forfeited to the United States in an action brought by the district attorney of the district in which such vessel may be found. Clearance may be granted to such vessel notwithstanding the provisions of this section upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such cost, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in urgent cases, and for good cause shown, temporarily land any alien seaman for medical treatment, but such seaman shall be returned to the vessel or other means of transportation upon which he arrived in the United States or to the vessel to which he belongs, unless the Attorney General shall provide otherwise. Upon the refusal of any alien seaman to return to the vessel or other means of transportation upon which he arrived in the United States or to the vessel to which he belongs, unless the Attorney General shall provide otherwise, the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel or other means of transportation shall be liable to a penalty of $500 for each seaman so refusing. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in the discretion of the Attorney General, issue a permit to any alien seaman employed on a vessel arriving at a port of the United States entitling such alien seaman to go ashore temporarily during the period the vessel remains in port, subject to such conditions as the Attorney General may prescribe, without the payment of the tax provided for in section 2 hereof. Any such alien seaman who shall remain in the United States after the departure of the vessel on which he arrived shall be deported in the manner provided by law, unless the Attorney General shall otherwise direct.

(b) Except that an alien seaman who does not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place outside thereof, shall be presumed to have been in the United States prior to the sailing of the vessel on which he arrived, and the burden of proof shall be upon him to establish the time of his entry into the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General shall be satisfied that the immigration officer at the port of arrival or the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival has failed to perform any duty imposed upon him by this section, he may, in his discretion, impose a penalty of not more than $1,000 for each such failure.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States only such alien seaman (other than an alien crewman employed on a vessel touching only at ports in the Western Hemisphere, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands, and remaining not more than thirty days in the United States, or such alien seaman employed on a vessel touching only at ports in the United States and foreign contiguous territory, and such alien seaman employed on a vessel touching only at ports in the United States and adjacent islands) as has been certified by the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival to the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization as the Attorney General may prescribe for the immigrant classification of such alien seaman, and has been granted a permit by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization to land temporarily for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or hospital or other relief necessary, or for such period of time as the Attorney General may prescribe, or pending departure on board the vessel or other means of transportation on which he arrived or on board some other vessel or other means of transportation, or pending transfer to the custody of the immigration officials for deportation. Such permit may be granted upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety, or the deposit of such sum as may be required, to assure the return of such alien seaman to the vessel or other means of transportation on which he arrived or to such other vessel or other means of transportation as may be designated by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, or the payment of the cost of the maintenance of such alien seaman while in the United States, or the performance of such other conditions as may be prescribed by the Attorney General. Such bond may be declared void and the sum deposited may be remitted or refunded, or both, after the lapse of not less than four months from the date of the granting of such permit, if the alien seaman has not become a public charge and has complied with the conditions of the permit. Such bond may be forfeited for the violation of any of the conditions of the permit. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States without a permit or who shall remain in the United States for a longer time than specified in the permit shall be deported in the manner provided by law, unless the Attorney General shall otherwise direct.

(b) Except that an alien seaman who does not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place outside thereof, shall be presumed to have been in the United States prior to the sailing of the vessel on which he arrived, and the burden of proof shall be upon him to establish the time of his entry into the United States.

(c) If the Attorney General shall be satisfied that the immigration officer at the port of arrival or the immigrant inspector in charge of the port of arrival has failed to perform any duty imposed upon him by this section, he may, in his discretion, impose a penalty of not more than $1,000 for each such failure.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be granted a permit to go ashore from such vessel unless and until the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel has given a bond to the United States, with sufficient surety, in the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman, conditioned that such alien seaman will depart from the United States in such vessel or in transit by land without entering the United States, and will not become a public charge, and will comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws with respect to such alien seaman. Such bond shall be delivered to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located and the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman shall be forfeited to the United States unless such alien seaman is granted a permit to go ashore under the provisions of this section and such permit is surrendered to the collector of customs within the period for which granted, or unless such alien seaman shall have been taken into custody by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival and a sufficient sum of money to pay the cost of his detention shall have been deposited with the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in such cases as he may deem meritorious, extend the period within which such seaman may be required to depart from the United States, or may cancel any such bond, except that clearance may be refused any vessel the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of which has failed to pay the head tax or any fine, penalty, or expense imposed on such seaman, or has failed to deliver him on board for departure, or has employed any such seaman in violation of the immigration laws, or has refused to comply with any request of the Attorney General or any immigration officer for information or the production for examination, inspection, and visé of the papers of any such seaman. Any master of a vessel who shall refuse to receive any such alien seaman on board, after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment of any fine, penalty, or expense imposed or incurred on account of any alien seaman, and no such vessel, except those exempted by treaty, shall be granted clearance if the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer thereof has failed to pay the head tax or any fine, penalty, or expense imposed on account of any alien seaman, unless and until a sufficient sum of money to pay the same has been deposited with the collector of customs to cover such fine, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof has been executed and approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in such cases as he may deem meritorious, extend the time within which such fines, penalties, or expenses may be paid, and may cancel any such bond, except that clearance may be refused any vessel the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of which has failed to pay the head tax or any fine, penalty, or expense imposed on account of any alien seaman, unless and until such fine, penalty, or expense has been paid or such bond canceled. The master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing any alien who becomes a public charge within one year after his arrival in the United States from causes existing prior to his landing therein shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS APPROVED MAY 26, 1824, AS AMENDED

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because no other employment as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of distress, removal, or deportation on such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be responsible for the alienable debenture, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

(b) Every alien seaman (except those employed on such vessel while temporarily in the United States from any place outside thereof, for medical treatment, or because no other employment as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of distress, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States) shall be presented by the master of the vessel on which he arrived to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for inspection and examination (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners). Every alien seaman (except those employed on such vessel while temporarily in the United States from any place outside thereof, for medical treatment, or because no other employment as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of distress, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States) shall be presented by the master of the vessel on which he arrived to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for inspection and examination. Any alien seaman employed on such vessel while temporarily in the United States from any place outside thereof for medical treatment, or because no other employment as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of distress, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States, who is found by the Attorney General to be a member of the crew of the vessel at the time of the inspection and examination of the crew by the immigration officer, or at any time prior to the departure of the vessel from the United States, shall be granted a landing permit (Form I-95) solely for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or because no other employment as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of distress, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States, and shall be required to remain on board while the vessel remains in port, except that he may be removed therefrom for medical treatment, or because no other employment as the Attorney General may prescribe for the alleviation of distress, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. Such permit may be revoked by the Attorney General or any immigration officer at any time and the alien removed from the United States in the manner prescribed by section 20 (a) hereof. Failure to obtain such permit before departure from the United States shall be prima facie evidence that the alien was employed in violation of this section. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 167.)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman by reason of the time he may be required by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport alien seaman by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(d) Every alien seaman who did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was retained by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport. Any alien seaman who shall depart from the United States without having been granted a landing permit as provided in subdivision (b) hereof, or who shall remain in the United States after the termination of the period for which granted, or who shall land in the United States at any time or place other than as designated by the immigration officer, or who shall enter the United States by any means or at any time or place not duly reported by the master or agent of the vessel on which he arrived, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any alien seaman who shall fail to maintain any status under which he was admitted into the United States, or who shall fail to depart therefrom when required so to do, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. Any alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States upon the expiration of the period for which granted, or who shall fail to maintain any status under which he was admitted into the United States, or who shall fail to depart therefrom when required so to do, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

(e) Any alien seaman who shall fail to maintain any status under which he was admitted into the United States, or who shall fail to depart therefrom when required so to do, shall be deported as provided in sections 19 and 20 hereof. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 21. (a) Alien seamen excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws may be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (but any such alien seaman employed on board such vessel shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or hospital treatment, or because he is otherwise subject to detention by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival pending determination of such alien's right to land under the immigration laws, but only if such alien seaman furnishes a bond in such form and amount, not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such bond is furnished, as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, conditioned upon the departure of such alien seaman on board such vessel or other vessel or aircraft from the port of arrival as directed by the immigration officer at the time of such alien seaman's landing or upon the taking on board or departure of such alien seaman at any time or place as required by the Attorney General. Such bond may be canceled and the amount thereof returned to the obligor after the lapse of two years from the date of the landing of such alien seaman or after such alien seaman has been granted lawful permanent residence in the United States during such period of two years, or after such alien seaman has been issued an immigrant visa and is known to be departing from the United States within the period of his bond, or after such alien seaman has been granted United States nationality, or after such alien seaman has been definitely removed from the United States at the expense of the obligor of the bond or has died while in the United States or on board such vessel, or after such alien seaman has been surrendered to the custody of the Service for deportation, or after such alien seaman has been granted by the Attorney General the status accorded aliens lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence, upon a determination that the obligor of the bond has exercised due diligence in complying with the conditions of the bond with respect to such alien seaman. Failure to prosecute any suit or action on such bond with due diligence shall, in the discretion of the Attorney General, be sufficient cause for forfeiture of the bond. Upon the breach of any condition of such bond, the Attorney General may, in his discretion, cancel such bond and cause suit thereon to be instituted, or may accept in lieu of the penalty of such bond such lesser amount as he may deem sufficient, or may remit or cancel any part of such penalty, under such terms and conditions as he may impose. The decision of the Attorney General as to the forfeiture of such bond shall be final. Any such bond shall be subject to all applicable provisions of the bankruptcy laws.

(b) The Attorney General shall prescribe such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, including rules and regulations governing the granting of extensions of time for the departure of aliens and the cancelation of bonds in cases where he deems such action consistent with the purposes of this section.

(c) Any alien seaman who shall land temporarily in connection with his employment on board a vessel at a port of the United States and who shall fail to depart with such vessel, or on board some other vessel or aircraft, upon the departure therefrom of such vessel, shall be deported in the manner provided by section 23 of this Act, and shall be ineligible to be admitted to the United States as an immigrant unless he shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he did not land in the United States except temporarily for the purpose of medical treatment, or hospital treatment, or because he is otherwise subject to detention by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival pending determination of such alien's right to land under the immigration laws, but only if such alien seaman furnishes a bond in such form and amount, not less than $500 nor more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such bond is furnished, as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, conditioned upon the departure of such alien seaman on board such vessel or other vessel or aircraft from the port of arrival as directed by the immigration officer at the time of such alien seaman's landing or upon the taking on board or departure of such alien seaman at any time or place as required by the Attorney General. Such bond may be canceled and the amount thereof returned to the obligor after the lapse of two years from the date of the landing of such alien seaman or after such alien seaman has been granted lawful permanent residence in the United States during such period of two years, or after such alien seaman has been issued an immigrant visa and is known to be departing from the United States within the period of his bond, or after such alien seaman has been granted United States nationality, or after such alien seaman has been definitely removed from the United States at the expense of the obligor of the bond or has died while in the United States or on board such vessel, or after such alien seaman has been surrendered to the custody of the Service for deportation, or after such alien seaman has been granted by the Attorney General the status accorded aliens lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence, upon a determination that the obligor of the bond has exercised due diligence in complying with the conditions of the bond with respect to such alien seaman. Failure to prosecute any suit or action on such bond with due diligence shall, in the discretion of the Attorney General, be sufficient cause for forfeiture of the bond. Upon the breach of any condition of such bond, the Attorney General may, in his discretion, cancel such bond and cause suit thereon to be instituted, or may accept in lieu of the penalty of such bond such lesser amount as he may deem sufficient, or may remit or cancel any part of such penalty, under such terms and conditions as he may impose. The decision of the Attorney General as to the forfeiture of such bond shall be final. Any such bond shall be subject to all applicable provisions of the bankruptcy laws.

(d) Taxes that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory or adjacent island shall be refunded to the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart with reimbursement by the immigration officer at the port where such vessel is required by the immediately preceding section to report. Such refund shall not be made unless application is made therefor within two years after the date of the departure of the vessel from the United States.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship, such alien may be permitted by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival to depart on such vessel or aircraft as he may direct, and such alien shall not be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such expense may be collected from the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel. Nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer from any penalty otherwise imposed by law. The Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe the conditions upon which any such alien may be admitted to the United States notwithstanding the provisions of section 212(a)(15) of this Act.

ANNEX A-1.1

SEC. 1. No vessel of the United States shall be allowed to enter any port of the United States from any foreign port or place, or from any port or place in the United States to which the vessel may be bound, without having on board the vessel a certificate of admeasurement, specifying the name of the vessel, the place where built, the name of the owner, and the number of tons which the vessel measures, and no other certificate of admeasurement shall be received in evidence of the tonnage of any vessel. Every certificate of admeasurement of any vessel shall express the number of tons which the vessel measures, according to the rules contained in the fifth section of this Act, and no other. And every such certificate shall be signed by the surveyor or other person who admeasured the vessel, and shall be countersigned by the collector of the district in which the vessel is admeasured, or by the person performing the duties of collector for the time being.

SEC. 2. That the owner, consignee, master, or commander of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, and required by law to be furnished with a certificate of admeasurement of such vessel, who shall not have the same on board such vessel when she shall be entered at the custom-house, shall forfeit and pay the sum of $50 for each month such vessel may be without such certificate on board, after the time she shall be required by law to be furnished therewith, and until the same shall be produced to the collector of the district in which such vessel shall be entered; and such vessel shall not be admitted to an entry at the custom-house, nor to a clearance, until such certificate of admeasurement be produced, or the penalty aforesaid paid or secured to be paid to the satisfaction of the collector. And if any vessel, required by law to be furnished with a certificate of admeasurement, shall be found within the United States, or on the high seas, without such certificate on board, every such vessel, her tackle, apparel, and furniture, and her cargo, shall be forfeited; one moiety thereof to the use of the United States, and the other moiety to the use of the person or persons who shall seize and sue for the same, to be recovered in any court of the United States having competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 3. That the owner, consignee, master, or commander of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place without the limits of the United States, and required by law to be furnished with a certificate of admeasurement, who shall not produce the same to the collector of the district in which such vessel shall be entered, shall forfeit and pay the sum of $50 for each month such vessel may be without such certificate on board after the time she shall be required by law to be furnished therewith, and until the same shall be produced to the collector of the district in which such vessel shall be entered; and such vessel shall not be admitted to an entry at the custom-house, nor to a clearance, until such certificate of admeasurement be produced, or the penalty aforesaid paid or secured to be paid to the satisfaction of the collector. And if any vessel, required by law to be furnished with a certificate of admeasurement, shall be found within the United States, or on the high seas, without such certificate on board, every such vessel, her tackle, apparel, and furniture, and her cargo, shall be forfeited; one moiety thereof to the use of the United States, and the other moiety to the use of the person or persons who shall seize and sue for the same, to be recovered in any court of the United States having competent jurisdiction.

SEC. 4. That the owner, consignee, master, or commander of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place without the limits of the United States, and required by law to be furnished with a certificate of admeasurement, who shall not produce the same to the collector of the district in which such vessel shall be entered, shall forfeit and pay the sum of $50 for each month such vessel may be without such certificate on board after the time she shall be required by law to be furnished therewith, and until the same shall be produced to the collector of the district in which such vessel shall be entered; and such vessel shall not be admitted to an entry at the custom-house, nor to a clearance, until such certificate of admeasurement be produced, or the penalty aforesaid paid or secured to be paid to the satisfaction of the collector. And if any vessel, required by law to be furnished with a certificate of admeasurement, shall be found within the United States, or on the high seas, without such certificate on board, every such vessel, her tackle, apparel, and furniture, and her cargo, shall be forfeited; one moiety thereof to the use of the United States, and the other moiety to the use of the person or persons who shall seize and sue for the same, to be recovered in any court of the United States having competent jurisdiction.

(b) If the Attorney General finds that determination of the size and tonnage of a vessel was erroneously made, he may remit the penalty provided by this section or any part of it that is paid or secured to be paid. [46 App. U.S.C. 77]

(c) Except that an alien assigned for not more than one month in any calendar year may be employed as master of a vessel documented under the laws of the United States, no alien may be employed as master of a vessel documented under the laws of the United States unless the Secretary of Homeland Security finds that no citizen of the United States who is available could be employed as master of such vessel without the payment of wages substantially higher than those paid masters of vessels documented under the laws of countries other than the United States. [46 App. U.S.C. 77]

(d) If the Attorney General finds that determination of the size and tonnage of a vessel was erroneously made, he may remit the penalty provided by this section or any part of it that is paid or secured to be paid. [46 App. U.S.C. 77]

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 39. Then when arriving at any ocean port in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a complete manifest, type or printed, in the English language, of the names and occupations of all aliens on board, the ports at which they severally embarked and their destinations as far as known, and such information as may be required by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, touching the right of any alien to enter the United States, which manifest shall be taken and certified by the master of the vessel, or by the surgeon (if any) attached to the vessel, and delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival before the immigrants disembark therefrom. Such master, agent, consignee, or surgeon shall also furnish lists or manifests of such aliens in such form as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization, touching the sailing and arrival of vessels, and the persons carried thereon, whenever required so to do by the Secretary of Labor, and shall furnish to the immigrant inspector at each port complete lists of all aliens who have been taken on board the vessel at any foreign port or place, but who are not destined to such port, and who are to be landed at some other port of the United States, and shall report the sickness and the number of deaths that have occurred on board during the voyage, specifying the cause thereof. Such master, agent, consignee, or surgeon shall truthfully answer all questions touching the matters aforesaid propounded to him by the immigrant inspector. Such master, agent, consignee, or surgeon shall also furnish to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival the exact number of aliens on board his vessel, their names, ages, sex, nationality, last residence, and intended destination, as well as whether they have been inspected by the proper officers of the consul's office, and the presence or absence of any relatives or friends with the money in possession of each alien and the amount thereof, which information shall be noted upon the manifest by the inspector. Such master, agent, consignee, or surgeon shall also furnish to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival a list containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, and the information above required as to aliens. Any master, agent, consignee, or surgeon who refuses to comply with the provisions of this section, or who refuses to answer any question touching the matters aforesaid propounded to him by the immigrant inspector, or who willfully makes a false report or gives false information in regard to any matter or thing concerning which information is required by this section, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such false report is made, or information withheld, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Such fine may be imposed, and such imprisonment may be in addition to any other punishment which may be imposed for the violation of any other provision of law. The master of any vessel bringing an alien who becomes a public charge within one year after his arrival in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the master of any vessel shall not be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor for bringing to the United States any alien who becomes a public charge within one year after his arrival in the United States from any place outside thereof, if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that such master had no reasonable ground to believe that such alien was unable to comply with the requirements of law, and that he could not have ascertained such fact by the exercise of due diligence. Any vessel which shall land any alien at any port in the United States from any foreign port or place in violation of law shall be liable to the United States in the sum of $300 for each alien so landed, which may be sued for and recovered by the United States, or may be remitted in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor upon the payment of such sum or any part thereof as he may direct. Clearance may be refused any vessel liable to the payment of such sum, or which has been cleared without the payment thereof, but clearance may be granted prior to the payment upon the deposit with the collector of customs of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof, approved by the Secretary of Labor. Any vessel which has been cleared without the payment of such sum, or which has not been granted clearance, may, after notification or written demand by the collector of customs, be proceeded against in any district court of the United States within which such vessel may be found, and such sum recovered with costs. The Attorney General may also institute proceedings in any court of the United States to prevent the violation of any of the provisions of this section. The Attorney General may, when application is made in writing therefor by the master, agent, consignee, or surgeon of any vessel, remit the fine imposed upon such vessel by reason of the violation of this section by any master, agent, consignee, or surgeon thereof, or any part of such fine, when in his judgment the same has been imposed without fault on the part of such master, agent, consignee, or surgeon, and may prescribe the terms upon which remission may be granted. Nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve any person from any penalty or forfeiture provided by any other law.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien depends on the testimony of witnesses in the United States, the Attorney General may withhold the execution of any warrant of deportation until the testimony of such witnesses may be taken and preserved for such use as the Attorney General may deem necessary.

(d) Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to depart from the United States within a period of six months from the date of any final order of deportation made against him pursuant to law, or who shall willfully fail or refuse to present himself from time to time for examination at the office of the Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization having jurisdiction over his place of residence as required under the provisions of section 23 of this Act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment, and shall thereafter be deported upon the warrant of the Secretary of Labor.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on plain forms approved by the Department and may be used for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of entry. Such list or manifest may be typewritten or printed in plain Roman characters. Ink of contrasting color to that used in the body of the list must be used for the certificate of the master or commanding officer. Any list or manifest which is illegible or otherwise incomplete may be rejected and a new list required to be prepared before the vessel will be admitted to entry. Such list or manifest must be delivered to the immigration officer at the port of entry before the vessel is granted pratique. Any master who refuses or neglects to deliver such list or manifest, or who refuses to answer truthfully the questions contained therein, or who refuses to exhibit his passport, or the passport of any person on board his vessel, shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each such offense. (Act of February 27, 1917, sec. 8, 39 Stat. 879; U. S. C., title 8, sec. 144.)

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 5, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That from and after the 1st day of July, 1917, it shall be the duty of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel to which shall be granted a permit for the physical examination of any alien crewman, or seaman employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States, to deliver to the immigrant inspector at the time of application for inspection or not more than twenty-four hours in advance thereof a manifest, in triplicate, in the English language, containing the following information concerning each alien crewman or seaman employed on board said vessel at the time of her arrival at said port, to wit: Name in full, age, sex, nationality (country of which citizen or subject), last permanent residence, final port of foreign departure, calling at United States ports, intended future permanent residence, and whether or not he has been previously excluded from admission into the United States, and the date, place, and manner of each such exclusion and deportation, if any. Such manifest shall be certified to by the master or commanding officer of said vessel, and by the surgeon of the vessel, if there be a surgeon employed thereon, as to the correctness of the entries thereon. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deliver such manifest, or who shall refuse to furnish any information required by any immigrant inspector in relation to the same, or who shall refuse to detain on board any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (except that such inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board such vessel after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty (or any part thereof) in such sum as he may deem reasonable and just, if it be shown that the vessel has been operated in good faith and without negligence. (Mar. 4, 1925, 43 Stat. 1058; U. S. C., title 8, sec. 144.)

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States with any alien crewman or seaman employed on board who intends to land temporarily for medical treatment, or because such alien crewman or seaman is a member of the crew of such vessel and is destined to a port in the United States except Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands of the United States, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because such alien crewman or seaman is destined to a port in the United States except Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands of the United States, and is a member of the crew of a vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, and intends to land

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival, and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of changes of alien members of crews (Form I-418) shall not be delivered on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alien seaman is a "workaway," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of alien seamen, including names of returning American citizen seamen as well as aliens.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board a vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been informed such seaman (which information in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or who fails to detain such seaman on board after such inspection or to deport such seaman if required by such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so shall be liable to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared prior to the determination of such question, as provided in section 18, or after the time therein limited, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therein, withdraw such bond upon being satisfied that the alien seaman has been properly accounted for. Such withdrawal shall relieve the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel from the payment of the $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such withdrawal is made.

(b) Proof shall be filed in the office of the collector of customs of the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper. The action, as intended, shall apply to all deportable aliens employed on any vessel at any port of the United States from any place outside thereof, or shall be returned by the master of the vessel on which he arrived to a foreign contiguous territory, unless such seaman shall not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be required to accept such seaman unless the master thereof is furnished clearance from the Attorney General.

(43 Stat. 164–165, 22 Stat. 816; 8 U. S. C. 167 (a), 167 (c).)

That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a list or manifest of all persons employed on such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, the nationality of each person employed on board, and the last foreign port from which they severally came to the United States, and the intended final destination of each alien, together with such information likely to lead to the identification of such alien as the Attorney General may require. Such list or manifest shall be prepared in such manner as may be prescribed by the Attorney General, and shall be verified by the oath of the master or commanding officer at the port of departure from the vessel. Failure to deliver such list or manifest, or to furnish such information, or to make oath to the same when required, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $10 for each alien concerning whom such correct list is not delivered to a duly authorized officer of the United States at the time of the departure of the vessel from the last foreign port to the United States: Provided, That no master of any vessel shall be required to deliver to any officer of the United States at any port in the United States a list or manifest of the persons on board such vessel who are destined to ports in the United States other than the port at which such vessel shall first arrive, but such list or manifest shall be delivered by the master of such vessel to the proper officer of the United States at the port at which such vessel shall first arrive in the United States: Provided further, That the master of any vessel bound to a port in the United States shall, before departure from a foreign port, report and deliver to the consul of the United States for the district in which such port is located a list containing the names of all persons who have been discharged or have died on board during the voyage, and the consul shall indorse such list and report the same to the Commissioner-General of Immigration at the first port of arrival in the United States. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 10. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at the United States from any place outside thereof (other than an island adjacent thereto, or the mainland of Canada, Mexico, or Central or South America, or any island adjacent thereto), shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily to attend to matters solely connected with the vessel on which he arrived, and then only under such conditions as may be prescribed by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival (including a personal physical examination by the medical examiners).

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than an island adjacent thereto, or the mainland of Canada, Mexico, or Central or South America) with any alien seaman employed on such vessel shall, upon the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, pay a tax of $8 for each alien seaman on board such vessel at the time of inspection or, if no inspection is made, at the time of the entry of such vessel, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance papers until such tax has been paid or the payment thereof waived as provided in this section. The tax imposed by this section shall be in addition to any head tax imposed by section 2 of this Act.

(b) Any such tax not paid when due shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in rem, and the owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of such vessel shall be personally liable for any deficiency in such tax which may remain unpaid after the application of the vessel to the payment thereof. The Attorney General is authorized and directed to withhold or revoke the clearance of any vessel required by this section to pay such tax, or to file a bond for the payment thereof, until the tax has been paid or such bond filed.

(c) The Attorney General may refund any tax paid under this section in the case of any alien seaman who has been granted permanent admission to the United States, or who has been granted temporary admission to the United States solely for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment, or who has been granted temporary admission to the United States as a nonimmigrant described in section 101 (a) (15) (S) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, if such alien seaman was employed on such vessel during the period of such admission or such medical treatment, and if such vessel departed from the United States without such alien seaman. No refund shall be made unless application therefor is filed with the Attorney General within two years after the date of departure of such vessel from the United States. Refunds shall be made only from appropriations available for the refund of head taxes erroneously collected.

(d) Taxes paid by any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel under this section shall not be refunded, except as provided in subsection (c) of this section, nor shall any such taxes be treated as head taxes paid by or collected from any alien for the purposes of section 2 of this Act.

(e) The Attorney General shall prescribe such rules and regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the administration of this section.

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigrant inspection officer in charge at the port of arrival manifests containing the names of all aliens on board such vessel, stating the locations they respectively hold in the ship's compartments, which said manifests shall be prepared and subscribed under oath by the master thereof before a consular officer of the United States at the port of foreign departure, if there be such officer at such port, and if not, then before the consular officer of the United States at the nearest port to the foreign port of departure, if there be such officer at such nearest port, and if not, then before such officer as may be designated by the Secretary of Labor. Such manifests shall be in such form and contain such information as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe, and shall be verified by such immigration officer or the master before the departure of such vessel from the last port outside the United States. Any master who knowingly fails to comply with the requirements of this section shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $10 for each alien concerning whom correct lists are not delivered or a true report is not made as above specified, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the amount of the penalty to be imposed, and in the event such penalty is imposed, while it remains unpaid: but such penalty may be remitted or refunded if it appears that the immigrant inspection officer at the port of arrival was duly notified of the sickness or death of any such alien on board such vessel before the departure of such vessel from the last port outside the United States, or that such alien was not a citizen or subject of the country to which the vessel belongs, or that it was impossible to deliver the lists required before the departure of such vessel from such last port outside the United States, or that the master had no reasonable cause to believe that any of the aliens were inadmissible, or that clearance papers were granted by the Secretary of the Treasury after the filing of a bond or undertaking sufficient to cover such penalty, and the same shall not be remitted or refunded except upon the certificate of the Secretary of Labor that the immigrant inspection officer at the port of arrival was duly notified as aforesaid

ALIEN SEAMEN.

SEC. 14. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and contained on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Central and South America, the West Indies, Bermuda, the Canal Zone, the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Guam, Tutuila, Samoa, and Panama) shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, until the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of such vessel shall have given a bond to the United States, with sufficient sureties, in such sum, not exceeding $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such bond is required, as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, conditioned that such seaman will depart from the United States on board the vessel on which he arrived, or on some other vessel, within such period of time as may be allowed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, and will comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws touching seamen. Such bond shall be void as to any such seaman who is certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be unable to depart from the United States within the period specified, by reason of illness, injury, or insanity, if such seaman is detained in a hospital at the expense of the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or of the consignee thereof, until he is certified by such medical officer to be able to depart, or is reported by such medical officer to the Commissioner General of Immigration as suffering from insanity, or is certified by such medical officer to be suffering from a contagious disease of a type which would be a cause for his exclusion from admission to the United States under the immigration laws, or until he is removed from the United States by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or the consignee thereof, or until he is otherwise properly landed or removed from the United States. Upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover the cost of such removal, the Commissioner General of Immigration may cause such alien seaman to be removed from the United States in the manner provided by law for the removal of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully. Any such sum deposited by the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of any vessel may be used to pay the cost of such removal, and so much of such sum as may be required for such purpose may be applied by the Commissioner General of Immigration to such use. Upon the performance by the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of any vessel of the duties imposed upon him by the immigration laws with respect to any alien seaman, and upon the departure of such alien seaman from the United States, or upon the cancellation of the bond given for his departure, or upon a showing that the bond was improperly required, the Commissioner General of Immigration shall cancel such bond and return the sum deposited, or so much thereof as may not have been applied as provided in this section.

(a) Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of the provisions of this section, or who shall fail to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel within such period of time as may be allowed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, or who shall fail to comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws touching seamen, or who shall be certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be unable to depart from the United States within the period specified, by reason of illness, injury, or insanity, if such seaman is detained in a hospital at the expense of the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or of the consignee thereof, until he is certified by such medical officer to be able to depart, or is reported by such medical officer to the Commissioner General of Immigration as suffering from insanity, or is certified by such medical officer to be suffering from a contagious disease of a type which would be a cause for his exclusion from admission to the United States under the immigration laws, or until he is removed from the United States by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or the consignee thereof, or until he is otherwise properly landed or removed from the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Before any such alien seaman shall be granted a discharge in the United States, he shall be required to pay the cost of his maintenance while detained in a hospital as aforesaid, and the cost of his removal from the United States, unless the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given a bond for the payment thereof, or unless the cost of such maintenance and removal shall have been paid by some person on his behalf. All moneys collected from masters, commanding officers, pursers, or consignees of vessels for the maintenance and removal of alien seamen shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation from which shall be paid the cost of the maintenance of such alien seamen, and the appropriation shall be reimbursed to the extent of the moneys so deposited.

(b) Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of the provisions of this section, or who shall fail to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel within such period of time as may be allowed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, or who shall fail to comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws touching seamen, or who shall be certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be unable to depart from the United States within the period specified, by reason of illness, injury, or insanity, if such seaman is detained in a hospital at the expense of the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or of the consignee thereof, until he is certified by such medical officer to be able to depart, or is reported by such medical officer to the Commissioner General of Immigration as suffering from insanity, or is certified by such medical officer to be suffering from a contagious disease of a type which would be a cause for his exclusion from admission to the United States under the immigration laws, or until he is removed from the United States by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or the consignee thereof, or until he is otherwise properly landed or removed from the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Before any such alien seaman shall be granted a discharge in the United States, he shall be required to pay the cost of his maintenance while detained in a hospital as aforesaid, and the cost of his removal from the United States, unless the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given a bond for the payment thereof, or unless the cost of such maintenance and removal shall have been paid by some person on his behalf. All moneys collected from masters, commanding officers, pursers, or consignees of vessels for the maintenance and removal of alien seamen shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation from which shall be paid the cost of the maintenance of such alien seamen, and the appropriation shall be reimbursed to the extent of the moneys so deposited.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of any vessel on which an alien seaman arrived in the United States is unnecessary in order to secure the presence of such alien seaman at any hearing or examination, or for his departure, and that such alien seaman will depart from the United States without expense to the Government, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien seaman to depart from the United States, and may cancel any outstanding warrant of arrest and bond with respect to such alien seaman.

(d) Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of the provisions of this section, or who shall fail to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel within such period of time as may be allowed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, or who shall fail to comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws touching seamen, or who shall be certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be unable to depart from the United States within the period specified, by reason of illness, injury, or insanity, if such seaman is detained in a hospital at the expense of the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or of the consignee thereof, until he is certified by such medical officer to be able to depart, or is reported by such medical officer to the Commissioner General of Immigration as suffering from insanity, or is certified by such medical officer to be suffering from a contagious disease of a type which would be a cause for his exclusion from admission to the United States under the immigration laws, or until he is removed from the United States by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or the consignee thereof, or until he is otherwise properly landed or removed from the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Before any such alien seaman shall be granted a discharge in the United States, he shall be required to pay the cost of his maintenance while detained in a hospital as aforesaid, and the cost of his removal from the United States, unless the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given a bond for the payment thereof, or unless the cost of such maintenance and removal shall have been paid by some person on his behalf. All moneys collected from masters, commanding officers, pursers, or consignees of vessels for the maintenance and removal of alien seamen shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation from which shall be paid the cost of the maintenance of such alien seamen, and the appropriation shall be reimbursed to the extent of the moneys so deposited.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of any vessel on which an alien seaman arrived in the United States is unnecessary in order to secure the presence of such alien seaman at any hearing or examination, or for his departure, and that such alien seaman will depart from the United States without expense to the Government, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien seaman to depart from the United States, and may cancel any outstanding warrant of arrest and bond with respect to such alien seaman.

(f) Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of the provisions of this section, or who shall fail to depart with the vessel on which he arrived or on some other vessel within such period of time as may be allowed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, or who shall fail to comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws touching seamen, or who shall be certified by a medical officer of the United States Public Health Service to be unable to depart from the United States within the period specified, by reason of illness, injury, or insanity, if such seaman is detained in a hospital at the expense of the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or of the consignee thereof, until he is certified by such medical officer to be able to depart, or is reported by such medical officer to the Commissioner General of Immigration as suffering from insanity, or is certified by such medical officer to be suffering from a contagious disease of a type which would be a cause for his exclusion from admission to the United States under the immigration laws, or until he is removed from the United States by the owner of the vessel on which he arrived or the consignee thereof, or until he is otherwise properly landed or removed from the United States, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Before any such alien seaman shall be granted a discharge in the United States, he shall be required to pay the cost of his maintenance while detained in a hospital as aforesaid, and the cost of his removal from the United States, unless the master, commanding officer, purser, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall have given a bond for the payment thereof, or unless the cost of such maintenance and removal shall have been paid by some person on his behalf. All moneys collected from masters, commanding officers, pursers, or consignees of vessels for the maintenance and removal of alien seamen shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States to the credit of the appropriation from which shall be paid the cost of the maintenance of such alien seamen, and the appropriation shall be reimbursed to the extent of the moneys so deposited.

Such lists shall be prepared at such time previous to the departure of such vessel from the foreign port as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, with the approval of the Secretary of Labor, and shall be delivered to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival before the commencement of the inspection of the persons on board. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any such vessel who refuses to deliver such lists to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, or who refuses or neglects to answer truthfully any question contained in such lists as to any such alien, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each such alien concerning whom such refusal or neglect occurs.

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or quarantine requirements as the Attorney General may prescribe for the nationals or citizens of the country to which the vessel belongs, or for the purpose of obtaining surgical treatment, or because of shipwreck, until the immigration laws and regulations affecting the admission of aliens to the United States shall have been complied with. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 50. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, multiply such penalty by not less than one nor more than $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, when such failure occurs prior to June 5, 1940.

ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (other than an alien seaman employed on board any vessel plying between the United States and foreign contiguous territory), shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the immediate examination by the medical officer of the port of arrival of such alien seaman, and for the immediate return of such alien seaman on board such vessel or other vessel of the same owner upon which he may be employed or may be destined to be employed, unless such alien seaman is lawfully entitled to enter the United States. Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States for any purpose or for any length of time other than as permitted by this section shall be deported in the manner provided by section 19 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 155). Any such alien seaman who shall land in the United States at any time or place other than as designated by the immigration officer or who shall enter or attempt to enter the United States by means of any false or fraudulent document in his possession or who shall fail to comply with any of the requirements of this section or the regulations issued thereunder may be arrested without warrant and shall be detained pending inquiry and deportation. Any person who shall bring to the United States any alien seaman who is required by this section to be deported shall be required to take such alien seaman on board the vessel or other vessel or aircraft on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States or to provide for the return of such alien seaman to the country from which he came, and in default thereof shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be cleared or granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the deportation of any such alien seaman, or while the alien seaman remains, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such expense, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such deposit or bond, in the event such alien seaman is produced within a reasonable time as required by the Attorney General. Nothing in this section shall affect the right of any alien seaman to enter the United States as a member of the crew of any vessel arriving at the port where such alien seaman was employed if he is otherwise admissible under the immigration laws and is in possession of a valid seaman's certificate or other document issued by the country of which he is a national which the consul general, consul, or consular agent of the United States in such country shall have visaed. The Attorney General shall have the power to prescribe rules and regulations for the enforcement of the provisions of this section, and shall appoint such additional immigrant inspectors as shall be necessary to secure the proper enforcement thereof. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this section or any rule, regulation, or order made thereunder, or who furnishes false information or makes false statements in connection with the application for a certificate of identity provided for in this section, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 or by imprisonment for not more than six months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof shall apply to all deportation claims unless satisfactory evidence is submitted by the master of such vessel as a result of a request made by the immigration officer at the time of departure of such vessel that such alien seaman has been paid or has arranged to be paid his wages.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate and remit any fine not exceeding $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigration officer in charge of the port of entry [list containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and their intended final destination as far as known. Such list shall be prepared in the port of entry] [list containing so much of such information as the alien concerned shall, by examination thereafter and after the entry of any such vessel, it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to report to such immigration officer in writing, as soon as discovered, all cases in which any such alien has illegally landed from the vessel, giving a description of such alien, together with all information likely to lead to his apprehension; and before the departure of any such vessel it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all aliens employed who were not employed thereon at the time of the arrival but who will leave port thereon at the expiration of the time of their employment, and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired to take the place of any alien previously reported or landed; and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master so to deliver within two hours [, if any, who have departed or landed, and in case of the failure of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver within two hours] after the departure of any alien [employed] whose name should be reported, [and also the names of those, if any, who have been hired to take the place of any alien so departing, and] in the event such alien is subsequently found in the United States, such owner, agent, consignee, or master shall, in addition to any other penalty prescribed by law, be liable to the penalty prescribed in section 16 of this title.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to detain on board any alien passenger employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such passenger (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner) or who fails to detain such passenger on board after such inspection or to deliver such passenger to any such immigration officer or the Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien passenger in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such fine, in whole or in part, under such conditions as he may impose, if he shall be satisfied that the vessel has been operated without negligence and in good faith, and that the fine was incurred without intention on the part of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel to bring in such alien passenger in violation of the provisions of this section. Such fine shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in rem in the district court of the United States for the district in which the vessel may be found. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the fine has been paid or sufficient bond or undertaking approved as to form and surety by the collector of customs has been given to assure the payment thereof.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assigned to the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman if such vessel is required to remain in port, or to sail to a port other than that to which such seaman was assigned, or that such seaman is destitute or afflicted with a communicable disease, he may cause him to be detained on shipboard or at such other place as he may designate until such seaman shall be granted clearance, until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a complete manifest of all the persons on board of such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the said vessel, and the names of those who are cabin passengers, and shall furnish such additional information relative thereto as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, and shall also deliver to the said officer a list or manifest of all alien members of the crew who are discharged in the port of arrival, or who desert while in port, at the time of such discharge or desertion, which list or manifest shall be certified to by the master of such vessel as correct. Any master of a vessel who refuses or neglects to comply with the requirements of this section, or who refuses to report, or who reports incorrectly, any member of the crew who is discharged or deserts, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such offense. Any master who knowingly lands or permits to land in the United States from his vessel any alien member of the crew who is required by this section to be reported, at any port other than a port of arrival, without the permission of the immigration officer in charge of such port, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien so landed, or imprisonment for a term of not more than one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who fails to report the illness or hospital treatment of any alien seaman shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the reporting of alien seamen employed on any vessel touching at ports in the United States solely for the purpose of taking on board fuel, supplies, sea stores, or equipment, or for repairs, or to land sick or injured members of the crew for medical treatment, or because of stress of weather or other necessity, provided such vessel shall depart with all the members of the crew on board thereof, except such as shall have been lawfully discharged or shall have died or deserted, and except that in case of the death of any member of the crew or the desertion of one or more members of the crew prior to departure, report and description of such deceased or deserting seamen shall be made to the immigration officer in charge of the port at the time of departure. Any master who fails to report the death of any seaman as required by this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon application in writing therefor, the Commissioner General of Immigration may, upon the recommendation of the Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, issue a certificate of exemption in favor of any vessel touching at ports in the United States, which certificate shall specify the number of alien seamen who may be employed on board such vessel during her stay in such ports without the payment of the tax provided for in this section, and such certificate may be withdrawn upon the failure of the master or owner of such vessel to comply with the provisions of this section. Upon the presentation of such certificate to the collector of customs at any port the master shall be required to pay only such tax as may be due upon the number of alien seamen employed on board in excess of the number specified in such certificate. Any master who knowingly employs any alien seaman in violation of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman employed, or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any master who fails to deport any alien seaman on board his vessel when ordered so to do by the Commissioner General of Immigration or his authorized agent shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to payment of such fine, or while any such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit the payment of such fine, or any part thereof, upon such terms as he may deem just and in accordance with law. Such remission, remission, or refund shall not be made in any case in which it shall appear that the owner, master, agent, or consignee of the vessel was in any way at fault with respect to the violation of this section. Any alien seaman who shall have been ordered deported by the Commissioner General of Immigration or his authorized agent shall be detained on board or at such port as may be designated by the Commissioner General of Immigration until such alien seaman shall have been removed from the United States by the master of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or by the owner or agent of such vessel, or until the Commissioner General of Immigration or his authorized agent shall have granted a permit for such alien seaman to land temporarily in the United States, or until the decision of the Commissioner General of Immigration or his authorized agent shall be reversed on appeal. Upon the refusal of the master of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States to detain such alien seaman on board his vessel or to deport him on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel, or upon the refusal of the owner or agent of such vessel to pay the cost of such detention, the master, owner, or agent of such vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each such alien seaman. Such penalty shall not be remitted or refunded except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of the liability to the payment thereof upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty and the cost of such detention. Such alien seaman shall be subject to such regulations governing his admission to the United States as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, whether such alien seaman shall be entitled to enter the United States or not. Such regulations may provide for the safeguarding of his personal effects during the period of his detention on board or on land under the direction of the master, owner, or agent of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or of the customs officer in charge of the port, and for the forfeiture and disposition of such effects of any such alien seaman who shall not be claimed by the master, owner, or agent of such vessel within six months after the date of the completion of the voyage of such vessel to a port in the United States. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention on board or on land of any alien seaman who has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant under section 101(a)(15)(D) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended, and who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport which has been issued or visaed by the Government of the country of which he is a national, if such passport specifically identifies the seaman by name and includes a photograph of the seaman, unless the Commissioner General of Immigration has reasonable cause to believe that the seaman intends to violate the conditions of his entry as a nonimmigrant. Any seaman who is granted shore leave under the provisions of this section and who remains in the United States after the termination of his period of authorized shore leave or after it appears to the Commissioner General of Immigration that the seaman will not depart with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States shall be deported in the manner provided by law. Clearance may be granted to any vessel notwithstanding the refusal of any seaman to proceed on the voyage, and the master, owner, or agent of such vessel shall not be liable to any penalty by reason of such refusal. Any seaman who deserts while his vessel is in port shall be liable to a penalty of $5 or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, unless such seaman shall sooner depart from the United States with the consent of the Commissioner General of Immigration or his authorized agent, or shall sooner be returned to the vessel from which he deserted or to the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to some other vessel, by the master, owner, or agent of such vessel. Any person who shall knowingly harbor any such deserting seaman, or shall prevent or hinder or interfere with his being returned as aforesaid, shall be liable to a penalty of $10. Any seaman who shall desert at any port in the United States from any vessel in which he arrived at such port from any foreign port or place shall be liable to the forfeiture to the United States of all his effects which may be on board such vessel, or which may have been shipped or entered, and which are within the jurisdiction of the port at the time of such desertion, and such effects may be sold to pay the penalty imposed upon such seaman by this section, and the proceeds of such sale shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States. Any seaman who shall refuse to perform duty on board the vessel on which he shall have agreed to ship, without reasonable cause, or who shall be found intoxicated while on board such vessel, shall be liable to a penalty of $20, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding four weeks. The master of any vessel may, for any of the causes aforesaid, arrest any seaman and bring him on board his vessel, or may require the assistance of any police officer, marshal, or other officer of the United States in so doing; and the said officers are hereby required to render such assistance upon application. Any person who shall entice any seaman to desert from any vessel in which he arrived at any port in the United States, or who shall conceal any such seaman, or who shall refuse to give information concerning him to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or officers of such vessel, or to any officer of the United States, upon request, shall be liable to a penalty of $50. Any person who shall knowingly harbor any such deserting seaman, or shall prevent or hinder or interfere with his being returned as aforesaid, shall be liable to a penalty of $10. Any seaman who shall desert at any port in the United States from any vessel in which he arrived at such port from any foreign port or place shall be liable to the forfeiture to the United States of all his effects which may be on board such vessel, or which may have been shipped or entered, and which are within the jurisdiction of the port at the time of such desertion, and such effects may be sold to pay the penalty imposed upon such seaman by this section, and the proceeds of such sale shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States. Any seaman who shall refuse to perform duty on board the vessel on which he shall have agreed to ship, without reasonable cause, or who shall be found intoxicated while on board such vessel, shall be liable to a penalty of $20, or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding four weeks. The master of any vessel may, for any of the causes aforesaid, arrest any seaman and bring him on board his vessel, or may require the assistance of any police officer, marshal, or other officer of the United States in so doing; and the said officers are hereby required to render such assistance upon application. Any person who shall entice any seaman to desert from any vessel in which he arrived at any port in the United States, or who shall conceal any such seaman, or who shall refuse to give information concerning him to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or officers of such vessel, or to any officer of the United States, upon request, shall be liable to a penalty of $50. Any person who shall knowingly harbor any such deserting seaman, or shall prevent or hinder or interfere with his being returned as aforesaid, shall be liable to a penalty of $10. Any seaman who shall desert at any port in the United States from any vessel in which he arrived at such port from any foreign port or place shall be liable to the forfeiture to the United States of all his effects which may be on board such vessel, or which may have been shipped or entered, and which are within the jurisdiction of the port at the time of such desertion, and such effects may be sold to pay the penalty imposed upon such seaman by this section, and the proceeds of such sale shall be covered into the Treasury of the United States.

(43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 168.)

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be responsible for the payment of the tax imposed by section 2 of the Act of March 4, 1917, in connection with the coming to the United States of any alien seaman employed on such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner). Attorney General to do so, shall be paid by the collector of customs at the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while any such fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit the payment of such fine, or any part thereof, upon such terms as he may deem just and in accordance with law. Upon the refusal of the master of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived in the United States to detain such alien seaman on board his vessel or to deport him on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States or on some other vessel, or upon the refusal of the owner or agent of such vessel to pay the cost of such detention, the master, owner, or agent of such vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each such alien seaman. Such penalty shall not be remitted or refunded except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of the liability to the payment thereof upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty and the cost of such detention. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention on board or on land of any alien seaman who has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant under section 101(a)(15)(D) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended, and who is in possession of a valid unexpired passport which has been issued or visaed by the Government of the country of which he is a national, if such passport specifically identifies the seaman by name and includes a photograph of the seaman, unless the Commissioner General of Immigration has reasonable cause to believe that the seaman intends to violate the conditions of his entry as a nonimmigrant. Any seaman who is granted shore leave under the provisions of this section and who remains in the United States after the termination of his period of authorized shore leave or after it appears to the Commissioner General of Immigration that the seaman will not depart with the vessel on which he arrived in the United States shall be deported in the manner provided by law. Clearance may be granted to any vessel notwithstanding the refusal of any seaman to proceed on the voyage, and the master, owner, or agent of such vessel shall not be liable to any penalty by reason of such refusal. Any seaman who deserts while his vessel is in port shall be liable to a penalty of $5 or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, unless such seaman shall sooner depart from the United States with the consent of the Commissioner General of Immigration or his authorized agent, or shall sooner be returned to the vessel from which he deserted or to the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to some other vessel, by the master, owner, or agent of such vessel. SEC. 38. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held at the vessel's side for the inspection of the immigration officers at the port of arrival; or lists containing so much of such information as may be known to the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof, in the case of any such alien not specifically included in the lists required to be delivered as herein provided. Any such owner, agent, consignee, or master failing to deliver such lists or giving such information as he may have concerning any such alien shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction in the district court of the United States for the district in which the port of arrival is located shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each such alien concerning whom such failure occurs. The Attorney General shall prescribe the form of the lists required hereunder, and the method of inspection of aliens arriving at ports of the United States by sea or navigable rivers, and may enter into contracts with transportation companies, or masters of vessels, for the detention of aliens for examination before the departure of any such vessel from a port, and after the arrival of any such vessel at a port of the United States, and may employ such aliens as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, and may provide for the establishment of such immigration offices as may be deemed necessary at any port of the United States or elsewhere for the proper administration of this section and of the immigration laws as they may be amended, and may enter into contracts with such transportation companies as may be necessary to secure the return of any alien who may come to the United States in violation of this section or of the immigration laws as they may be amended, and may establish such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section, and shall have power to enforce the same by fine or imprisonment or both, or by deportation as provided in sections 19 and 20 of this Act. (39 Stat. 889; 8 U. S. C. 136.)

SEC. 39. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or hospitalization, or because of the necessities of the vessel, until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or has taken such other action as may be prescribed by rules and regulations of the Secretary of Labor. The Attorney General is authorized to detail such immigration officers as may be necessary for the proper performance of the duties imposed upon him by this section, and to parole any such seaman for a period not to exceed five days, under such conditions as he may prescribe, for the purpose of obtaining surgical treatment or hospitalization, or because of the necessities of the vessel, or pending the arrival of the vessel on which he is to be returned to a foreign port, or pending his departure on any vessel for any port in which he may lawfully enter. Any seaman who has been paroled as provided in this section shall, upon the request of the master, agent, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived, be returned to the custody of such vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while on parole ashore and of his return passage shall be borne by the master, agent, or consignee of such vessel. Any seaman who shall land in the United States in violation of this section, or who shall fail to return to the custody of the vessel on which he arrived when required so to do, shall be deemed to be unlawfully in the United States and shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have entered the United States unlawfully. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any vessel who shall refuse or fail to deport any seaman when ordered so to do by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall refuse or fail to detain any seaman when ordered so to do by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each seaman in respect of whom such default occurs, when such seaman is not ordered detained as a witness in connection with the prosecution of any person or persons charged with violating the provisions of this section, or when such seaman is not required as a witness in connection with the prosecution of any person or persons charged with violating any of the provisions of the immigration laws as they may be amended, and such seaman may be taken before any United States commissioner, judge, or court within the United States and returned to the vessel, master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof, or to the vessel on which he arrived, upon the payment of the sum hereinbefore provided, or upon the giving of a bond to the satisfaction of the court, commissioner, or judge before whom he is taken, in such sum not exceeding $1,000 for each seaman, as may be required by the Secretary of Labor, conditioned for the return of such seaman for deportation, and such seaman may be detained in custody until such bond is given. Any such seaman who has been paroled as provided in this section shall be deemed to be in the custody of the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel on which he arrived to the same extent as if he were still on board such vessel, and the cost of his maintenance while on parole ashore and of his return passage shall be borne by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel. SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any foreign port or place shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention in a hospital, or for the sole purpose of obtaining surgical treatment, or on account of the shipwreck of the vessel on which he arrived, or for such other reasons as may be approved by the Secretary of Labor, under such conditions as he may prescribe, but no such alien seaman shall be admitted to the United States unless the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival is satisfied that such alien seaman intends to depart from the United States and is in possession of a valid passport viséed by the consular officer of the country to which he intends to depart, if such country requires passports and visés: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the requirements of this section in favor of any alien seaman who establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary of Labor that he is destitute and has been in the employ of the vessel on which he arrived for a period of not less than one month prior to its arrival in the United States, and that he intends to ship on a vessel departing from a port of the United States within thirty days after the date of his application for a waiver of the requirements of this section.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention in a hospital, or for the sole purpose of obtaining surgical treatment, or on account of the shipwreck of the vessel on which he arrived, or for such other reasons as may be approved by the Secretary of Labor, under such conditions as he may prescribe, any alien seaman employed on board any vessel arriving at a port of the United States from any place outside the United States, except an alien seaman (while under inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), arriving and inspected such seaman (while under inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), arriving and inspected such seaman on board such vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival shall have been notified by the master, agent, consignee, or owner of such vessel that such alien seaman is employed on such vessel and that such alien seaman has been discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing as much of such information as may be required by the Attorney General shall prescribe; and thereafter those to be hired in the ports of subsequent arrival; and whenever there shall be any failure to deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival any list required by this section, the master, agent, consignee, or owner of the vessel in default shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same in whole or in part under such conditions as he may impose. Such application shall bear the endorsement of the master that the statements therein contained are true to the best of his knowledge and belief. Any person who knowingly and willfully makes any false statement in connection therewith shall be subject to the penalties prescribed for perjury. When an alternate seaman is a "workaway," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of alien seamen, include names of alternate aliens serving as well as signed.

(b) Proof that an alien seaman did not depart upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from a place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence to a similar fact before the immigration officer at the port of arrival.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

SEC. 36. [Any alien arriving to the United States from the foreign part of the island of Guam, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands, or who has resided continuously for two years next preceding his departure from the United States, Hawaii, or Guam, may be admitted at the discretion of the Secretary of Labor, or such immigration officer as he may designate, for a temporary period not exceeding one year, upon the giving of a bond with sufficient surety, in such sum and containing such conditions as the Secretary of Labor shall prescribe: but aliens coming to Guam may be admitted only if in possession of return tickets. Such bonds may be renewed at the end of the year, with sureties or new bonds, or the deposit may be increased, in the discretion of the Secretary of Labor. Any alien who shall have been admitted into the United States or shall hereafter be admitted, who becomes a public charge from causes not affirmatively shown to have arisen subsequent to his entry thereunder within two years after such entry, shall be deported as provided in this Act: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to any alien who was admitted as a child under sixteen years of age, unaccompanied by or coming to join a parent, who has subsequently been naturalized, within five years after the admission of such alien to the United States, or to the wife who has been admitted as the husband entitled to admission hereunder within five years after the admission of such husband to the United States, if such husband shall have been naturalized or shall have declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States at the time of the admission of such wife: Provided further, That the provisions of this section relating to the deportation of aliens who become public charges shall not apply to persons who are admitted as refugees under section 2 of the Act of June 25, 1948, as amended (the Displaced Persons Act of 1948), or who are paroled into the United States for the convenience of the Government or for emergent reasons or for reasons deemed strictly in the public interest under section 212(d)(5) of the Immigration and Nationality Act.]

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place in the western hemisphere, other than Canada or Newfoundland, or Panama, or the Canal Zone, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment for such illness, or because of the necessity of his assistance as a witness in connection with the investigation of such alien's right to land in the United States, or for the purpose of participating in a hearing before the Attorney General or his designee, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the aliens temporarily detained at ports of entry, or unless he shall have been granted a waiver by the Attorney General pursuant to such conditions as he may prescribe, and specifically found in the case of any seaman employed on a vessel regularly making trips to ports in foreign contiguous territory that the seaman intends to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he is employed or on some other vessel within the period of his waiver. Any alien seaman who shall land in the United States from any vessel in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 hereof, and shall be ineligible to be admitted to the United States or to land in the United States except as a bona fide alien seaman serving on board a vessel which departs from the United States within the period of his waiver. Any alien seaman who shall fail to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived or within the period of his waiver, unless prevented from so doing by sickness or other cause beyond his control, shall be deported as provided in section 19 hereof, and in addition thereto shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman who is required by this section to be specifically found not likely to land to secure his entry thereto as a seaman shall pay to the collector of customs a sum equal to the cost of returning such alien seaman to the country whence he came or to the country from which he embarked to the United States, which cost shall be determined by the Attorney General. Penalties provided for in this section may be remitted or mitigated by the Attorney General upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just. Nothing in this section shall be construed to require the detention of any alien seaman for a period longer than the period of his lawful permission to land temporarily in the United States.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (as defined in section 101(a)(38) of the Immigration and Nationality Act) shall be permitted to land in the United States from such vessel temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment for such illness, or because of the necessity of his assistance as a witness in connection with the investigation of such alien's right to land in the United States, or for the purpose of participating in a hearing before the Attorney General or his designee, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the aliens temporarily detained at ports of entry, or unless he shall have been granted a waiver by the Attorney General pursuant to such conditions as he may prescribe, and specifically found in the case of any alien employed on board any vessel arriving at any port of the United States from any place outside the United States that he is not likely to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness requiring his detention, or for the purpose of obtaining treatment for such illness, or because of the necessity of his assistance as a witness in connection with the investigation of such alien's right to land in the United States, or for the purpose of participating in a hearing before the Attorney General or his designee, or pursuant to such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the aliens temporarily detained at ports of entry, or unless he shall have been granted a waiver by the Attorney General pursuant to such conditions as he may prescribe, and specifically found in the case of any alien employed on board any vessel arriving at any port of the United States from any foreign contiguous territory that the alien intends to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he is employed or on some other vessel within the period of his waiver. Any alien who shall land in the United States from any vessel in violation of this section shall be deported in the manner provided in section 19 hereof, and shall be ineligible to be admitted to the United States or to land in the United States except as a bona fide alien seaman serving on board a vessel which departs from the United States within the period of his waiver. Any alien who shall fail to depart from the United States with the vessel on which he arrived or within the period of his waiver, unless prevented from so doing by sickness or other cause beyond his control, shall be deported as provided in section 19 hereof, and in addition thereto shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States any alien seaman who is required by this section to be specifically found not likely to land in the United States shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Such application in writing must be made within one year from the date of the failure with respect to which remission or mitigation is requested. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. Such application in writing must be made within one year from the date of the failure with respect to which remission or mitigation is requested. Clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be refused in the case of any vessel reasonably believed to be about to depart from the United States with intent to evade the payment thereof. (The remission or mitigation of such fine shall only be made upon one of the following grounds: (1) that the fine was incurred solely through the negligence, without intention of wrongdoing, of the master of the vessel, and that he had been vigilant in the performance of his duties; (2) that the vessel was not primarily responsible for the violation of the conditions imposed, and that the master of the vessel could not have reasonably been expected to prevent the violation; (3) that the master of the vessel had no reason to believe that the seaman in question intended to violate the conditions imposed upon his landing; (4) that the seaman in question promptly and voluntarily reported to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival that he had remained in the United States in violation of the conditions imposed upon his landing, and that the master of the vessel had no reason to believe that the seaman intended to violate the conditions imposed upon his landing; (5) that the seaman in question has been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence, and that the master of the vessel had no reason to believe that the seaman intended to abandon his foreign residence; or (6) that the seaman in question was a defector who had entered the United States with the consent of the Government of the United States.) Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the fines incurred by section 16 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 886; 8 U. S. C. 171), have been collected, but not after the vessel shall have been cleared. The provisions of section 16 of the Immigration Act of 1917 (39 Stat. 886; 8 U. S. C. 171), shall not be applicable to fines incurred under section 20 of the Immigration Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 170).

SEC. 36. That alien seamen in any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place to a port in the United States, or from one port to another in the United States, shall be subject to all regulations which are now or may hereafter be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, or such officers as he may designate, governing the admission of aliens to the United States, and shall be treated as immigrants for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of the immigration laws relating to the exclusion or deportation of aliens, except that they shall not be required to pay any head tax. Any such alien seaman who shall desert from any vessel in which he arrived in the United States or who is ordered on board such vessel for departure and fails to report on board within a reasonable time after such departure shall be deported as an immigrant alien seaman who has remained in the United States for a longer time than permitted by the immigration laws. Any such alien seaman who shall be found on shore without a permit, or who shall remain on shore after the expiration of the period of his permit, or who shall go from the vessel on which he arrived to another vessel without permission of the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, shall be deported as an immigrant alien seaman who has remained in the United States for a longer time than permitted by the immigration laws, unless he shall satisfy the Secretary of Labor that he was unable to secure the return passage with the vessel on which he arrived, or that he was prevented from so doing by illness or other cause beyond his control, or that he has been granted a further period of shore leave by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or by the Secretary of Labor, pending the settlement of any charges against him. Any such alien seaman who shall desert from any vessel in which he arrived in the United States, or who shall remain on shore after the expiration of the period of his permit, or who shall go from the vessel on which he arrived to another vessel without permission of the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or who shall be found on board any such vessel after it has departed from the port, shall be taken into custody and deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel from which he deserted, remained, or departed shall pay to the immigrant inspector in charge of the port a sum sufficient to cover the cost of his maintenance while on shore and his return passage to the port of embarkation, which sum shall be refunded if the seaman is returned to such port by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel, or if he shall be taken from the vessel at a subsequent port and returned to the port of departure. Any such alien seaman who shall refuse to proceed on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to such other vessel as he may be ordered to proceed in by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall pay to the immigrant inspector in charge of the port a sum sufficient to cover the cost of his maintenance while on shore and his return passage to the port of embarkation, which sum shall be refunded if the seaman is returned to such port by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel, or if he shall be taken from the vessel at a subsequent port and returned to the port of departure. Any such alien seaman who shall refuse to proceed on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to such other vessel as he may be ordered to proceed in by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived shall pay to the immigrant inspector in charge of the port a sum sufficient to cover the cost of his maintenance while on shore and his return passage to the port of embarkation, which sum shall be refunded if the seaman is returned to such port by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel, or if he shall be taken from the vessel at a subsequent port and returned to the port of departure. Any such alien seaman who shall desert from any vessel in which he arrived in the United States, or who shall remain on shore after the expiration of the period of his permit, or who shall go from the vessel on which he arrived to another vessel without permission of the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or who shall be found on board any such vessel after it has departed from the port, shall be taken into custody and deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel from which he deserted, remained, or departed shall pay to the immigrant inspector in charge of the port a sum sufficient to cover the cost of his maintenance while on shore and his return passage to the port of embarkation: but if any such alien seaman who was not employed thereon at the time of his arrival but who has been employed on any vessel arriving at any port in the United States shall desert from any such vessel, it shall be the duty of the master, agent, owner, or consignee of such vessel to report to such immigration officer, in writing, as soon as discovered, all facts in such case in order that such alien may be deported as provided by law. Any such alien seaman who shall refuse to depart from the United States when ordered by the immigration officer, or who shall enter any vessel in order to secure his passage to any foreign port, shall be arrested and taken before the commissioner of immigration at the port of entry, and if he shall not show sufficient cause why he should not depart from the United States he shall be fined not more than $100 and imprisoned not more than one year, and upon the payment of such fine and the termination of such imprisonment he shall be delivered to the master of the vessel from which he deserted, or to the master of any vessel bound for the same foreign port or place from which he originally came, for deportation, and the cost of his maintenance while in custody shall be collected in the same manner as the cost of his maintenance on board such vessel would be collected. Any such alien seaman who shall refuse to proceed on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or to such other vessel as he may be ordered to proceed in by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or by the Secretary of Labor, shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of the immigration laws, unless the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which he arrived

Such lists or manifests shall be prepared in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Labor in pursuance of the provisions of this Act. Such master, agent, owner, or consignee shall furnish to each alien a copy of the list or manifest delivered by him containing the name of such alien, and shall indorse upon the list or manifest delivered by him to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival the name of each alien who has been taken on board at any port other than the port of arrival, and shall furnish to each such alien a copy of the list or manifest containing his name, and shall indorse upon the list or manifest delivered by him to the immigrant inspector at each port the name of each alien who has been taken on board at such port and who remains on board the vessel at the time of such delivery. Such master, agent, owner, or consignee shall furnish to each alien taken on board at any port a copy of the list or manifest containing his name, and shall indorse upon the list or manifest delivered by him to the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival the name of each alien who has been taken on board at any port and who remains on board the vessel at the time of such delivery, and for each alien who may be found on board the vessel at the time of arrival at any port of the United States who was not entered on the list or manifest delivered by the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel at the last port at which the vessel touched before coming to the United States, the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel shall furnish a written statement setting forth the reason why the name of such alien was not entered on the list or manifest delivered by him to the immigrant inspector, and the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival shall have the right to require the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel to prove by the ship's articles, ship's papers, and such other evidence as may be available that the statement made by him as to the reason why the name of such alien was not entered on the list or manifest delivered by him to the immigrant inspector is true and correct. Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who refuses or fails to comply with the requirements of this section, or who refuses or fails to prove the truth of the statement made by him as to the reason why the name of any alien was not entered on the list or manifest delivered by him to the immigrant inspector, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien as to whom such master, agent, owner, or consignee refuses or fails to comply with the requirements of this section, and no vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such sum or pending the payment of the same, or while the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel refuses to comply with the requirements of this section as to any alien on board such vessel: Provided, That clearance may be granted prior to the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such sum in such cases as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor when a sufficient bond or undertaking approved by the collector of customs is given to insure the payment to the collector of customs of the sum which may be finally determined to be due: Provided further, That clearance may be granted by the Secretary of Labor prior to the payment of such sum in such cases as may be specified by him when a sufficient bond or undertaking approved by the collector of customs is given to insure the payment of such sum to the collector of customs if and when the same becomes due and payable: Provided further, That clearance may be granted by the Secretary of Labor prior to the determination of the question of the liability

SEC. 3c. That when alien arrives at any seaport in the United States from any foreign port or place, it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the immigration officer in charge of the port a correct list or manifest of all the aliens employed on said vessel, showing the position they respectively hold in the ship's company, which said aliens they were respectively assigned or entered, and such other information as to each as the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe. And when the arrival of any such vessel is duly reported to the immigration officer, it shall be the duty of such owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed, previous to the time of the vessel's last sailing from a foreign port, and who have been employed on board the vessel during the present voyage, and the cause of the separation of each from the vessel, which list shall be verified in the manner provided in the preceding section. Any such master, owner, agent, consignee, or master who shall refuse or neglect to deliver either of the lists required by this section, or who shall refuse to answer any question put to him by the immigration officer in charge of the port touching the right of any alien to enter the United States, or who shall refuse to detain any alien on board his vessel when required so to do by such immigration officer, or who shall refuse to comply with the regulations or orders of the Attorney General made in pursuance of this section, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which such port is located the sum of $300 for each and every such refusal or neglect, and in addition thereto such master shall be liable to a penalty of $300 for each alien concerning whom such master shall refuse to answer any question or fail to report, or concerning whom any false statement or report is made: Provided, That no penalty shall be imposed for the failure to report the name of any alien who shall have been a member of the crew of the vessel and who shall have been reported and accounted for as a deserter from such vessel by the master thereof at the time of the departure of such vessel from a port of the United States: Provided further, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, remit any penalty provided for in this section or any part thereof.

SEC. 15. That any alien who enters or attempts to enter the United States without inspection or at any time or place other than as designated by immigration officers, or eludes examination or inspection by immigration officers, or attempts to enter or obtains entry to the United States by willfully concealing or misrepresenting any fact, shall be deported as provided in section 19 of this Act.

SEC. 16. (a) Any alien who shall be found in the United States in violation of this Act or any amendment thereto, or in violation of any rules or regulations made by the Secretary of Labor in pursuance of the provisions of this Act, or who shall have been admitted to the United States upon the payment by the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel in which he arrived of the head tax provided for by section 2 of this Act, or who shall have been admitted to the United States upon the giving of a bond to indemnify against the charge that he would become a public charge, may, if application for his deportation is made within five years after his entry, be taken into custody and deported in the manner provided by this section and section 19 of this Act: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to any alien who shall have been admitted to the United States as a member of the crew of a vessel or who shall have entered the United States solely as a bona fide passenger for pleasure or temporarily to receive medical treatment, unless it shall appear to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such alien has failed to maintain a status entitling him to such admission, or that he was within the United States in violation of the immigration laws at the time of his admission, or that he has become a public charge from causes arising subsequent to his admission.

(b) The deportation of aliens provided for in this section shall be determined after a hearing before a special inquiry officer, unless the alien shall request in writing a hearing before the Secretary of Labor, and shall be conducted in accordance with such rules and regulations as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. The decision of the special inquiry officer shall be based only upon the evidence produced at the hearing, unless the alien shall waive the production of such evidence. The alien may be represented by such counsel, agent, or attorney as he may see fit and at his own expense. The warrant of arrest in such cases shall specify the charge or charges upon which the alien is to be deported, and a copy thereof shall be furnished to the alien before the hearing. Any alien arrested pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be allowed a reasonable time, but not exceeding one month except in exceptional circumstances, in which to send for relatives or friends and to secure counsel before the hearing is commenced. Pending final determination, including such hearing, the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, release the alien from custody upon the execution by him of a bond in such amount, not exceeding $1,000, and with such security as may be required, and containing such conditions as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. The Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, permit the deportation of any alien who is under bond or who has deposited money with the Government pursuant to the provisions of this section, and who has been ordered deported in such proceedings, to any country which he may designate which is willing to receive him, and may extend the time within which such deportation shall be effected. Any alien who shall willfully fail or refuse to appear or to submit himself for deportation within such time as may be specified by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall appear but shall refuse to answer any question material to the inquiry or shall refuse to sign any deposition or affidavit when required, or who shall refuse to submit to such physical and mental examination as may be prescribed by the rules and regulations made in pursuance of this section, shall, pending the making of such order, be taken into custody and confined, unless released on bail as provided in this section, and shall, upon the making of such order, be deported in the same manner as provided for the deportation of persons whose presence in the United States is unlawful. Any alien who shall willfully violate the conditions of any such bond, or who shall depart from the United States or attempt to depart therefrom without having first secured the consent of the Secretary of Labor to his departure, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Any alien who shall be deported under the provisions of this section shall be deported at the expense of the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act, or at the option of the Secretary of Labor, at the expense of the immigration appropriation for the fiscal year in which such deportation occurs, to the port at which such alien was admitted to the United States, or to the country whence he came to the United States, or to the country in which is situated the birthplace of such alien, or to the country in which he resided prior to coming to the United States, at the option of the alien, or to any country which may be designated by the alien subject to the consent of the government of such country and the approval of the Secretary of Labor

SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any alien in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof, or the person in charge of the port of arrival (or their successors), to deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival lists or manifests of all aliens sought to be landed, which lists or manifests shall be prepared and verified at such time and place and in such manner as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. The lists or manifests shall contain such information as may be required by the Commissioner General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person acting in their behalf, including a description of each alien, information as to his or her identity and nationality, whether he or she is coming in pursuance of a previously existing labor contract, whether he or she has been deported or excluded from the United States previously and the cause therefor, whether he or she has a ticket and sufficient money to pay his or her railroad fare or other transportation to his or her ultimate destination, whether he or she intends to become a citizen of the United States, whether he or she is going to join relatives or friends, and if so, what relatives or friends, and their names and complete addresses, whether he or she has been in prison or in a almshouse or an asylum for the insane or supported by charity, whether he or she is a polygamist, whether he or she is an anarchist, whether he or she believes in or advocates the overthrow by force or violence of the Government of the United States or of all forms of law, whether he or she is coming to the United States to perform labor if so, what kind, in what occupation, skill, and capacity, whether he or she is married or single, the age, sex, color, race, nationality, birthplace, last residence or domicile, whether going to join a husband, father, or other relative or friend, and if so, his or her name and complete address, whether ever before in the United States or at what time or times, whether ever before refused admission to the United States or deported, whether under contract or assisted to come, whether in possession of $50 in money or more, whether a skilled laborer or not, and whether any immigrant is coming on account of any corporation, association, society, or foreign government, all of which information shall be set forth in the said lists or manifests in such manner as the Commissioner General of Immigration may prescribe: Provided, That the master, agent, owner, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing any alien not in possession of a valid immigration visa and reasonably fit documentary passport issued by the country to which he belongs, or other satisfactory means of identification prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, shall be liable to a penalty of $200 for each such alien, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability of the master, agent, owner, consignee, or charterer to the payment of such penalty, or while the question of remission is pending before the Secretary of Labor, and no such penalty shall be remitted or refunded except upon the certificate of the Commissioner General of Immigration that in his opinion the person concerned in the case is not liable to be excluded from admission to the United States under the immigration laws, or that, if so excludable, he was prevented from excluding himself or herself from admission or from being excluded therefrom by the acts, conduct, or orders of the master, agent, owner, consignee, or charterer, or his or her employees, or that he or she has remained in the United States for a sufficient length of time to establish his or her right to permanent residence therein: Provided further, That the master, agent, owner, consignee, or charterer of any vessel bringing any alien not in possession of a valid immigration visa and reasonably fit documentary passport issued by the country to which he belongs, or other satisfactory means of identification prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration, who is afflicted with any contagious disease, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General may deem just: Provided further, That the Attorney General in his discretion shall remit fifty dollars of the penalty imposed by this section, as amended, in the case of any alien who shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he was forced by the immediate necessity of such vessel as a seaman, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after readmittance by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General shall find that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival; and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel. The list of members of alien immigrant class (Group I and II) shall not be examined on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alternate seaman is a "motorman", a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of aliens seeking admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except from the adjacent islands of Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Republic of Panama), the master, purser, or other person in charge of such vessel shall, before the departure of such vessel from the last port at which such vessel touched before entering the United States, report to the immigration officer in charge at such port the name of every alien employed on board such vessel, and shall furnish such information in regard to each such alien as may be required by such immigration officer. Such report shall be made in quadruplicate, and upon such forms as may be prescribed by the Commissioner-General of Immigration with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Any master, purser, or other person in charge of such vessel who fails to report the employment of any such alien, or who knowingly makes any false report or statement with reference to any such alien shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 18. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except from Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Republic of Panama) shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness or injury requiring hospital treatment, or because of such other reasons as the Attorney General may prescribe for the ultimate departure, removal, or deportation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164; 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof (except from Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Republic of Panama) shall be jointly and severally liable to the payment of a tax of $8 for each alien seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners) arriving in the United States, unless such alien seaman is in transit through the United States to a foreign country, or is a citizen of Canada, Newfoundland, Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico, the Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Republic of Panama, or is an alien seaman employed on board a vessel touching at a port of the United States solely in the course of a voyage between ports in the United States or between ports in the United States and ports in the Panama Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, or the Republic of Panama, or is an alien seaman who has been lawfully admitted to the United States and who is employed on board a vessel touching at a port or ports of the United States on a voyage to a foreign country and who is returning to the vessel on which he arrived in the United States to accompany the vessel on her departure from the United States. The tax imposed by this section shall be paid to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located (or the customs district in which the port of inspection of such alien seaman is located if such inspection is performed at a port other than the port of arrival), and shall be refunded by such collector of customs upon the production to him of such evidence as may be required by the Commissioner-General of Immigration that the alien seaman has been deported, or has departed from the United States within such time as may be prescribed by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, or has been granted the status of a lawful permanent resident of the United States, or has been admitted to the United States as a nonimmigrant other than a seaman, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a bona fide seaman, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a member of the crew of a vessel other than the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a bona fide seaman pending the arrival of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a member of the crew of a vessel other than the vessel on which he arrived in the United States pending the arrival of such vessel, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a bona fide seaman pending the departure of a vessel other than the vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a member of the crew of a vessel other than the vessel on which he arrived in the United States pending the departure of such vessel, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a bona fide seaman pending the departure of a vessel on which he arrived in the United States, or has been granted permission to land temporarily as a member of the crew of a

The medical officer of the port may order any alien passenger who is certified by the examining surgeon to be afflicted with a loathsome or dangerous contagious disease to be detained on board or at such place designated by him until a certificate is issued that such alien is free from such disease or that in the opinion of said medical officer the danger of contagion has passed, and any master who fails to obey such order shall be subject to the penalties provided in this section in the case of the unlawful landing of aliens. SEC. 36. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port to which it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the sixth's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and specifying those to be held on board to be discharged in the port of arrival; to place conspicuously on board of such vessel, so as to be discovered by all seeking to enter the same, lists containing the names of all aliens employed or engaged on board, and specifying the positions they respectively hold in the sixth's company; and before the departure of the vessel from the port to deliver to such immigration officer, or his authorized representative, lists containing the names of all aliens employed on board, and specifying the positions they respectively hold in the sixth's company, and the last known address of each alien. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses or neglects to deliver any list required by this section, or who refuses to allow any immigration officer to go on board any such vessel for the purpose of inspecting the same and the persons on board thereof, or who refuses to answer truthfully the questions contained in such lists as to each alien employed on board, shall pay to the collector of customs for the customs district in which the port is located the sum of $300 for each alien concerning whom such master, agent, consignee, or owner refuses to furnish information or allow such inspection, and no clearance shall be granted to such vessel while such refusal continues. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or in a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Secretary of Commerce may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate such penalty, or any part thereof, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just and proper.

The section, as amended, shall apply to all passengers arriving on vessels from foreign contiguous territory to which the immigration laws and employment on board the vessel as to aliens shall be applicable.

(b) Proof shall be on alien seaman who shall not obtain permit from the immigration officer to land in the United States.

(c) It shall be unlawful for any person, company, or corporation to bring to the United States any alien seaman who shall not be in possession of a valid permit or identification card issued in accordance with such regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and such alien seaman may be required to furnish a bond in such sum and with such sureties as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor conditioned that such alien seaman will depart from the United States within the period limited by the permit or identification card and will comply with all the requirements of the immigration laws and regulations with respect to aliens admitted as seamen. Any such bond may be sued for and recovered by the United States in case of the breach of any condition thereof.

(d) Any master, agent, owner, or consignee of any vessel who shall refuse to pay the expenses of any alien seaman ordered deported from the United States on such vessel, or who shall refuse to detain any such alien seaman on board such vessel when requested so to do by any immigration officer, or who shall refuse to pay the cost of maintenance of any such alien seaman while detained at a hospital or elsewhere pending the decision as to whether he shall be deported, shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such default occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or in a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Secretary of Commerce may, upon application in writing therefor, remit or mitigate such penalty, or any part thereof, upon such terms and conditions as he may deem just and proper.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that transportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States is unnecessary or undesirable because of the health condition of the alien seaman or for any other reason, the Attorney General may authorize the master, agent, owner, or consignee of the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived in the United States to detain the alien seaman on board or at quarantine or elsewhere pending the decision as to whether the alien seaman shall be allowed to land temporarily or permanently or be deported. Such detention shall be at the expense of the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived in the United States unless the Attorney General determines that the cost of such detention should be borne by the United States. The cost of maintenance of any alien seaman detained on board or at quarantine or elsewhere pursuant to this subsection shall be a lien against the vessel on which the alien seaman arrived in the United States, and clearance of such vessel from a port in the United States may be withheld until such lien is discharged. Any such lien may be enforced by libel filed by the United States attorney for the district in which the vessel may be found. Such libel shall be filed and such proceedings had thereon as in the case of libels for the enforcement of penalties for the violation of the immigration laws. Such lien shall be subject to the payment of wages of the alien seaman which are required by law to be paid before the payment of any such lien.

SEC. 16. (a) The owner, master, agent, consignee, or pilot of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place to which he belongs, or any person having charge or command of such vessel, shall report the same to the collector of the district within which the vessel shall arrive, or to such officer as the collector may authorize to receive reports, immediately upon her arrival, and before the vessel shall be entered at the custom-house, and shall truly answer all questions which may be demanded of him by the collector, or such officer, touching the vessel, her cargo, and voyage, and produce all such papers relating thereto as the collector, or such officer, may require. Every person who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $500.

(b) The owner, master, agent, consignee, or pilot of any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place to which he belongs, or any person having charge or command of such vessel, shall, immediately upon her arrival, and before the vessel shall be entered at the custom-house, report to the collector of the district within which the vessel shall arrive, or to such officer as the collector may authorize to receive reports, the number of persons on board such vessel, distinguishing the number of passengers, and the number of seamen, and shall render a true account and manifest in writing, verified by his oath, of all the passengers taken on board such vessel, specifying the number taken on board at each place, and the number landed at each place; and shall, before any part of the cargo is discharged, answer truly all questions which may be demanded of him by the collector, or such officer, touching the cargo, and the value thereof, and the manner in which it is stowed, and produce all such documents relating thereto as the collector, or such officer, may require. Every person who shall refuse or neglect to comply with the requirements of this section shall be liable to a penalty of $1,000 for each and every such refusal or neglect, and the master of such vessel shall be liable to a penalty of $500 for each and every passenger concerning whom a true report and manifest shall not be made, and the vessel shall be liable for the payment of all such penalties, which may be sued for and recovered by any collector within whose district such vessel may arrive, after the same shall become payable as aforesaid, or may be retained by the collector of the district from which such vessel may depart, previous to the payment of such penalties, by process against the vessel, which may be commenced and carried on in like manner as is provided for the recovery of penalties and forfeitures incurred under the revenue laws of the United States. The provisions of this section shall be extended to all vessels arriving from adjacent foreign territory in which passengers or merchandise are transported in vessels not exceeding fifty tons burden, navigated by not more than two persons, and making regular trips at stated periods.

(c) The Attorney General shall have full authority to compromise any claim arising under subsection (b) of this section before the commencement of a suit thereon, and after judgment to remit the same, upon payment of the costs and such sum as he may deem sufficient to secure the payment of the penalties to be incurred, or which may have been incurred, under the provisions of this section, and to direct the discharge of any vessel detained therefor. The Attorney General may delegate all or any part of his authority under this section to such officers, agents, or employees of the Department of Justice as he may designate for the purpose.

(d) Except that an action commenced shall not abate by reason of the death of the master, agent, consignee, or pilot of the vessel, no action shall be maintained under subsection (b) of this section against any person who shall have reported, in accordance with the provisions of this section, the number of persons on board the vessel, and rendered a true account and manifest of the vessel, on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign port or place, unless such action shall be commenced within one year after the cause of action arose.

(f) The Attorney General shall report to the Congress annually in December the name of each person to whom a penalty or forfeiture was remitted or mitigated pursuant to subsection (e) of this section during the preceding fiscal year, the amount of each such penalty or forfeiture, and the circumstances of each such remission or mitigation.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 36. That alien seamen of any race in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to detain to the primary immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival such seamen until the manifest of all alien seamen shall have been compared with the list of alien seamen ordered on board such vessel, and the bonding laws in respect thereto complied with by the said owner, agent, consignee, or master, and certificates issued by the primary immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival that such alien seamen have been duly inspected and admitted or detained under the provisions of this Act, and such certificates shall be delivered to the master of such vessel before clearance shall be granted such vessel by the collector of customs or other officer authorized to grant clearance: Provided, That the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of any such vessel may deposit with the Secretary of Labor such sum as he may deem sufficient to cover the cost of the removal of any such alien seaman who may become a public charge, pending the decision as to whether a warrant of deportation shall be issued in his case, and in the event a warrant of deportation is issued, there may be added to the sum deposited such amount as may be necessary to pay the cost of such removal, and the remainder of such deposit shall be returned. Failure to detain any alien seaman upon the request of the primary immigration officer shall be unlawful, and the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which said alien seaman arrived shall pay to the collector of customs a sum not exceeding $1,000 for each such alien seaman, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to the payment thereof, or while the said alien seaman remains therein, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit such fine or cancel such bond, or any part thereof, whenever it appears that any such alien seaman has been prevented from departing from the United States for reasons beyond the control of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived, or for the interest of any vessel as a result of the immigration officer's action in the case of such alien seaman, or that no fine should be imposed. Such fine shall not be remitted or canceled if it appears that any such alien seaman was allowed to land temporarily or otherwise in the United States by any officer of the United States without the consent of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, or that any such alien seaman has been relanded in a foreign country or returned to the United States from Canada or Mexico within one year after such deportation, unless it shall be made to appear to the Secretary of Labor that such seaman was prevented from departing from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived through no fault or connivance of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 108.)

SEC. 37. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the contiguous territory of Canada and Mexico (and in the case of vessels arriving at the port of Honolulu, Hawaii, from any place outside the Territory of Hawaii) shall before a personal physical examination by the medical examiner) furnish such information and documents relative to the crew and passengers as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe. Such information shall be given under oath administered by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival. Such vessel shall not be granted clearance or permitted to depart from the United States until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has been notified that such vessel is ready to depart and has granted permission to depart. Any person who violates any provision of this section shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

(b) Any alien seaman who shall not appear upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was rejected by an officer of the Attorney General: Provided, That such alien seaman may be permitted to land in the United States under bond, in such sum not exceeding $500 (or such greater amount as the Attorney General may prescribe), with security approved by the Attorney General, conditioned that such alien seaman shall depart from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or on such other vessel or vessels as may be specified by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, or such other vessel as the Attorney General may designate, within such period of time as may be specified by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, and shall comply with such reasonable regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe: And provided further, That such alien seaman may be permitted to land temporarily for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or emergency requiring his removal from the vessel, or for such other reasons as may be deemed sufficient by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, but such temporary landing shall not be considered a waiver of the requirement that such alien seaman depart on the vessel or vessels specified by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival. Any alien seaman who fails to depart from the United States in accordance with the terms of any bond executed under the provisions of this section shall be deported in the manner provided by law for the deportation of aliens who have been admitted to the United States. Any such bond may be sued for and recovered in the name of the United States in the district in which the port is located from which such alien seaman departed, or in the district in which such alien seaman was found, by the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port is located from which such alien seaman departed, or by such other person as may be designated in writing by the Secretary of Labor. The decision of the Secretary of Labor as to the facts in any case under this section shall be final. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 108.)

SEC. 38. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel bringing to the United States from any place outside thereof (except from Canada or Mexico) any alien seaman who has been ordered on board such vessel by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival for medical treatment, or because of illness, injury, or emergency requiring his removal from the vessel, or for such other reasons as may be deemed sufficient by the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, but fails to cause such alien seaman to depart on such vessel or vessels as may be specified by such immigration officer, or whenever such alien seaman is found in the United States at any time within five years after such arrival, shall pay to the collector of customs of the district in which the port is located from which such alien seaman departed, or in the district in which such alien seaman was found, a penalty of $1,000 for each such alien seaman, which penalty shall be a lien upon the vessel on which such alien seaman arrived, and such vessel may be libeled therefor in the district court of the United States for the district in which such vessel may be found. Clearance may be withheld or granted upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such penalty, or the execution of a bond with sufficient surety approved by the Attorney General, conditioned upon the payment of such penalty. Such penalty may be remitted or canceled by the Attorney General upon such terms and conditions as he may deem reasonable and just, or the proceedings thereunder stayed, if it appears that such alien seaman has been prevented from departing from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived through no fault or connivance of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of such vessel, or that no fine should have been imposed. Such penalty shall not be remitted or canceled if it appears that any such alien seaman was allowed to land temporarily or otherwise in the United States by any officer of the United States without the consent of the immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, or that any such alien seaman has been relanded in a foreign country or returned to the United States from Canada or Mexico within one year after such deportation, unless it shall be made to appear to the Secretary of Labor that such seaman was prevented from departing from the United States on the vessel on which he arrived or on which he actually sailed for the reasons set forth in the affidavit of the master, owner, agent, consignee, or charterer of the vessel, and such vessel has been libeled or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO MASTER

The list described below shall be prepared on blank forms approved by the Department and be ready for delivery to the immigration inspector boarding the vessel at the port of arrival; and shall in no instance be taken from the vessel before the inspection is completed and the vessel admitted to entry. The list of changes of alien members of crews (Form I-418) shall not be furnished on board, but shall be delivered by the master to the principal immigration officer at the port. When an alternate seaman is a "workaway," a notation to that effect should be made on the manifest. In order to facilitate inspection of alien seamen, include names of alternate American citizen seamen as well as aliens.

EXTRACT FROM ACT OF CONGRESS OF FEBRUARY 2, 1917, AS AMENDED

SEC. 3E. That upon arrival of any vessel in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the master, purser, consignee, or agent, to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival a list containing the names of all persons employed on such vessel, stating the position they respectively hold in the port of arrival, the nationality of each, the last country in which each shall have acquired a residence, and the port and country from which he last came to the United States, and the number of pieces of baggage of each, which list shall be prepared in the form and manner and verified before the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel by the oath of such master, purser, consignee, or agent, or by the chief officer of such vessel, or by the surgeon, if there be one, and shall be subscribed by the master, purser, consignee, or agent, and by the chief officer, surgeon, or other officer of such vessel, as the case may be, and shall contain such information and be in such form as the Attorney General shall by regulation prescribe; and after the arrival of any such vessel it shall be the duty of the master, purser, consignee, or agent, to deliver to each immigration officer at the port of arrival a further list or report, similarly subscribed, of any additional persons employed on such vessel, and not included in the list or report previously delivered, and of the names of all persons employed on such vessel who were not so employed at the time of the arrival of such vessel at the port of arrival, and of the reasons for the absence from such vessel of such persons, and of the additional information likely to be required by the immigration officer in the case of each person, which list or report shall be subscribed and verified in the manner above prescribed: Provided, That the master, purser, consignee, or agent of any vessel may, in lieu of delivering the list or report above required, deliver to such immigration officer a duplicate of the list or report of persons employed on such vessel, which duplicate shall contain a statement showing the number of persons employed on such vessel who were not so employed at the time of the arrival of such vessel at the port of arrival, and the reasons for the absence from such vessel of such persons, and such other information as may be required by such immigration officer, in addition to the information required in the list or report delivered by the master, purser, consignee, or agent, and shall be subscribed and verified by the master, purser, consignee, or agent, and by the chief officer, surgeon, or other officer of such vessel, as the case may be, in the manner above prescribed for the verification of the list or report delivered by the master, purser, consignee, or agent: And provided further, That the master, purser, consignee, or agent of any vessel may, upon application to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, be permitted to deliver the list or report required by this section at such time prior to the arrival of the vessel at the port of arrival as the Attorney General may prescribe: And provided further, That the master, purser, consignee, or agent of any vessel may, upon application to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, be permitted to deliver the list or report required by this section at such time after the arrival of the vessel at the port of arrival as the Attorney General may prescribe: And provided further, That the master, purser, consignee, or agent of any vessel may, upon application to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, be permitted to deliver the list or report required by this section at such time after the departure of the vessel from the port of arrival as the Attorney General may prescribe: And provided further, That the master, purser, consignee, or agent of any vessel may, upon application to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival, be permitted to deliver the list or report required by this section at such time after the departure of the vessel from the port of arrival as the Attorney General may prescribe, in the case of any vessel which has been or may be required by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to detain for medical treatment, for treatment in a hospital, or for the completion of the manifest, one or more members of the crew, and in the case of any vessel which has been or may be required by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to detain for special examination in connection with the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to passports, one or more members of the crew, and in the case of any vessel which has been or may be required by the immigration officer at the port of arrival to detain for any other reason one or more members of the crew, the master, purser, consignee, or agent of such vessel may, with the approval of such immigration officer, omit to list or report such members of the crew specified by such immigration officer, but shall furnish to such immigration officer a list or report containing the names of all members of the crew so detained, and shall furnish such additional information relative thereto as such immigration officer may require. Any master, purser, consignee, or agent who shall refuse to deliver to such immigration officer any list or report required by this section, or who shall fail to include therein the name of any alien employed on such vessel, or who shall fail to furnish any information required by such immigration officer with respect to any such alien, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs. Any such master, purser, consignee, or agent who shall refuse to deliver to such immigration officer any such list or report, or who shall fail to include therein the name of any such alien employed on such vessel, or who shall fail to furnish any information required by such immigration officer with respect to any such alien, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien concerning whom such refusal or failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question whether the master, purser, consignee, or agent thereof is liable to the payment of any such sum, or while the time granted by the Attorney General in which to secure the payment thereof pursuant to the provisions of this section has not expired, or while any such sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond duly sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in individual cases, remit or cancel any fine or penalty or any part thereof incurred under the provisions of this section, as he may deem just, and may prescribe regulations governing the remission of such fines and penalties. Fines collected under the provisions of this section, unless otherwise directed by the Attorney General in the application shall first be applied to the payment of such expenses in respect of each alien as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $300 for each person in respect of whom such fine is imposed, as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor out of appropriations for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion of aliens. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in individual cases, remit or cancel any fine or penalty or any part thereof incurred under the provisions of this section, as he may deem just, and may prescribe regulations governing the remission of such fines and penalties. Fines collected under the provisions of this section, unless otherwise directed by the Attorney General in the application shall first be applied to the payment of such expenses in respect of each alien as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $300 for each person in respect of whom such fine is imposed, as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor out of appropriations for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion of aliens.

(b) Fines shall be liens against vessels.—Fines imposed upon masters, pursers, consignees, or agents of vessels arriving in the United States under the immigration laws shall be liens against such vessels, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment thereof, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond duly sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in individual cases, remit or cancel any fine or penalty or any part thereof incurred under the provisions of this section, as he may deem just, and may prescribe regulations governing the remission of such fines and penalties. Fines collected under the provisions of this section, unless otherwise directed by the Attorney General in the application shall first be applied to the payment of such expenses in respect of each alien as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $300 for each person in respect of whom such fine is imposed, as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor out of appropriations for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion of aliens.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assumed on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such assumed alien or to the master of such vessel as a result of such vessel's inability to secure the permanent services of a member of the crew to replace such alien, he may, in his discretion, permit such alien to depart from any place outside thereof, or, if such alien be a native of the country to which such vessel belongs, from any place in the United States to the country to which such vessel belongs, and such alien shall not be entitled upon any subsequent arrival in the United States to enter as a member of the crew of any vessel. Such permission shall not affect the liability of the master, purser, consignee, or agent of such vessel for the payment of the hospital expenses and the expenses of the alien's maintenance and removal provided for in this section.

(43 Stat. 164–165, as amended; 8 U. S. C. 161 (a), 161 (c).)

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws shall be employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place, or shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck, or other casualty, or for such time as the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel in which he arrived shall be required by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival to detain him on board or at such other place as such immigration officer may designate, or to proceed in such vessel or any other vessel to a foreign port, or to the port from which he came to the United States, or to the country in which was located the place of his birth, at the option of the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel in which he arrived. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or for such time as the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel in which he arrived shall be required by the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival to detain him on board or at such other place as such immigration officer may designate, or to proceed in such vessel or any other vessel to a foreign port, or to the port from which he came to the United States, or to the country in which was located the place of his birth, at the option of the master, purser, consignee, or agent of the vessel in which he arrived. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 188.)

Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the question whether the master, purser, consignee, or agent thereof is liable to the payment of any such sum, or while the time granted by the Attorney General in which to secure the payment thereof pursuant to the provisions of this section has not expired, or while any such sum remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond duly sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in individual cases, remit or cancel any fine or penalty or any part thereof incurred under the provisions of this section, as he may deem just, and may prescribe regulations governing the remission of such fines and penalties. Fines collected under the provisions of this section, unless otherwise directed by the Attorney General in the application shall first be applied to the payment of such expenses in respect of each alien as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $300 for each person in respect of whom such fine is imposed, as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor out of appropriations for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion of aliens.

(d) Fines shall be liens against vessels.—Fines imposed upon masters, pursers, consignees, or agents of vessels arriving in the United States under the immigration laws shall be liens against such vessels, and no such vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the question of the liability to the payment thereof, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond duly sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing in individual cases, remit or cancel any fine or penalty or any part thereof incurred under the provisions of this section, as he may deem just, and may prescribe regulations governing the remission of such fines and penalties. Fines collected under the provisions of this section, unless otherwise directed by the Attorney General in the application shall first be applied to the payment of such expenses in respect of each alien as may be certified by the Secretary of Labor, not exceeding $300 for each person in respect of whom such fine is imposed, as may be allowed by the Secretary of Labor out of appropriations for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act relating to the exclusion of aliens.

The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or remit the same. The Attorney General may, by regulation prescribed, make such rules and regulations as may be necessary for the enforcement of this section, and may designate and employ such additional persons as may be necessary to assist in the execution thereof. Any person who knowingly violates any of the provisions of this section, or any rule, regulation, or order made thereunder, for which a penalty is not otherwise provided, shall be punished by a fine of not more than $500 for each offense, or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. (39 Stat. 874; 8 U. S. C. 136 (a), 136 (c).)

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien assigned on the vessel on which he arrived in the United States will cause undue hardship to such alien, he may permit such alien to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived or the owner thereof, or any other person who may be liable for his deportation, upon such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Attorney General. Such alien shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

That alien arriving at a seaport in the United States from any foreign port or place it shall be the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival lists containing the names of all aliens carried on such vessel, stating the destination given respectively both in the guide's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and whether those so to be held on and discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing no names of such aliens, as the case may be. Such lists shall be prepared in such manner and form and contain such particulars concerning each alien as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master to refuse to deliver to such immigration officer, in addition to the penalty prescribed by section 36 of this Act, a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof in such amount as may be fixed by such officer, not exceeding $300 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master to deliver to such immigration officer at the time of the departure of any such vessel from a foreign port or place a list containing the name of each alien destined to the United States who may be on board such vessel at the time of departure, and any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master who refuses to deliver to such immigration officer a further list containing the names of all alien employees who were not employed previous to the time of the arrival of the vessel at the port of departure, and also the names of those, if any, who were born on board and shipwrecked, and of all aliens who may be discharged from the vessel, giving a description of each alien, together with such information likely to lead to his apprehension, shall upon conviction be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $500 for each alien concerned in respect of whom such failure occurs. Upon such terms as the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper.

(d) Proof that an alien concerned did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver or cause to be delivered such certificate by the immigration officer or the Attorney General.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien concerned on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such vessel, he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, he may cause such vessel to be detained not more than ten days pending such deportation, and such vessel shall not be cleared during such detention. In order to facilitate inspection, the master of such vessel shall, upon arrival at the port of arrival, deliver to the immigration officer at the port a list containing the names of all aliens concerned, stating the destination given respectively both in the guide's company, when and where they were respectively shipped or engaged, and whether those so to be held on and discharged in the port of arrival; or lists containing no names of such aliens, as the case may be. Such lists shall be prepared in such manner and form and contain such particulars concerning each alien as may be prescribed by the Commissioner General of Immigration with the approval of the Secretary of Labor. Any master, owner, agent, consignee, or master to refuse to deliver to such immigration officer, in addition to the penalty prescribed by section 36 of this Act, a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof in such amount as may be fixed by such officer, not exceeding $300 for each alien concerning whom such failure occurs. Upon such terms as the Attorney General in the discretion shall think proper.

SEC. 13. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from a foreign port or place shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of shipwreck or other casualty, or by reason of the illness of the alien seaman, or for the sole purpose of obtaining treatment for the illness of such alien seaman, or for such time as may be necessary to secure his repatriation, or pending the arrival of the vessel on board which he is employed or expects to be employed, or pending his transfer to some other vessel: Provided, That the Secretary of Labor may, in his discretion, waive the provisions of this section in favor of any alien seaman who has been in the United States for a period of not more than sixty days prior to his application for shore leave, and who is found by the Secretary of Labor to be a bona fide member of the crew of the vessel on which he arrived and to be in possession of a valid passport issued by the country of which he is a national, or other travel document satisfactory to the Secretary of Labor, and who presents a certificate from a duly accredited consular officer of the United States to the effect that such consular officer has visaed the passport or other travel document of such alien seaman with a view to his being admitted temporarily into the United States solely for the purpose of performing shore leave, and that the case of such alien seaman has been specially reported to the Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Labor has granted a temporary permit to such alien seaman to enter the United States solely for the purpose of performing shore leave, under such conditions as may be prescribed in each case by the Secretary of Labor.

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the adjacent islands shall furnish a manifest of all persons (which manifest shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiners), in addition to the list required by section 13 hereof, arriving on such vessel, which manifest shall be prepared at the last port of departure before entering the United States, and shall be in such form as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor, and shall be verified by the oath of the master or commanding officer or the agent of such vessel at the port of arrival. The Secretary of Labor shall have the right to refuse clearance to any vessel failing to comply with the provisions of this section, and any person who knowingly or willfully makes any false statement in any manifest required by this section shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Attorney General to do so, shall pay to the collector of customs of the customs district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $10 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such sum, or while the same remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such sum, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty or not impose same in any case in which he shall be satisfied that the failure to deposit such sum was excusable or was not due to fraud or to the willful neglect of the master or owner of the vessel. This section, as amended, shall apply to all penalties which may be incurred pursuant to June 2, 1924.

(d) Every alien seaman who shall not depart upon the outgoing manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from a place outside thereof, or who shall have been reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to depart or to maintain the conditions of the permit under which he was admitted, unless such alien seaman shall establish to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that such failure was occasioned by illness of the alien seaman or other cause beyond his control and without fault or negligence on his part.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that a deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived will cause undue hardship, because of the relationship of such alien seaman to a person residing in the United States, or for any other reason, the Attorney General may cause such alien seaman to be detained, pending his departure, in such institution as he may designate, for a period not exceeding sixty days, and may cause the deportation of such alien seaman to be postponed from time to time for such period or periods not exceeding sixty days each as he may prescribe. The cost of maintenance of any alien seaman detained under the provisions of this subsection shall be paid from the appropriation for the enforcement of this Act.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily on board such vessel and under such regulations as the Attorney General may prescribe for the treatment, or transfer to another vessel, or removal from the United States of such seamen: Provided, That any alien seaman who has been lawfully admitted for permanent residence and who is employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any foreign port or place and who is destined to a port or ports in the United States shall be allowed to enter the United States solely for the purpose of proceeding to his vessel and departing from the United States with such vessel on board which he was employed at the time of arrival in the United States or on board any other vessel destined to the same foreign port or place from which such vessel arrived in the United States: Provided further, That the Attorney General may, in his discretion, waive the application of this section in the case of any alien who has entered the United States prior to June 1, 1938, and who is employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States.

SEC. 30. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands who employs on board such vessel any alien seaman not lawfully admitted for permanent residence at the time of arrival of such vessel at the port of arrival, or who employs on board such vessel at any time after arrival any alien seaman who has been refused a landing permit or who has deserted such vessel, or who fails to detain on board such vessel any alien seaman who is ordered by the Attorney General to be detained on board such vessel pending final determination of his admissibility to land in the United States, or who fails to deliver to the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival of such vessel a complete and accurate list of all alien seamen employed on board such vessel, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which the port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs: No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of such question upon the deposit of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. (b) Every alien seaman who did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to detain or deport such seaman by the immigration officer of the Attorney General.

(c) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who refuses or fails to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival, or to such other officer designated by such officer, the lists or manifests required by this section, or refuses or fails to furnish in connection therewith any information required as herein provided, or who refuses or fails to answer any question put to him by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person by them authorized to require the same, touching the right of any alien to enter the United States, or who refuses or fails to detain on board his vessel any alien when ordered so to do by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person by them authorized to require the same, or who refuses or fails to comply with any of the requirements of this section relative to the detention on board his vessel of any alien, or the delivery of any alien detained on board his vessel to the custody of any officer entitled to demand the custody of such alien, or who refuses or fails to comply with any of the requirements of this section relative to the payment of the tax provided for herein, or who refuses or fails to pay the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 for each alien concerning whom such information is required by this section to be furnished, or concerning whom such false statement is made, or who is detained on board his vessel, or who is delivered from his vessel, or who refuses or fails to comply with the requirements of this section relative to the payment of the tax provided for herein, or who refuses or fails to pay the same, and shall not have clearance granted to his vessel by the collector of customs of the district in which the port is located from which such vessel is about to depart for a foreign port or place, or for any other port in the United States, until he has complied fully with the requirements of this section relative to the payment of the tax provided for herein, and shall pay all fines imposed upon him for violation of the provisions of this section before a clearance shall be granted to his vessel. The Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person by them authorized to require the same, may in his discretion refuse clearance to any vessel in which any of the provisions of this section have been violated, and detain the vessel at the port of arrival until all fines and penalties imposed upon the master or owner thereof under the provisions of this section have been paid or secured to be paid to the satisfaction of the collector of customs, or his successor in office, and may issue a certificate in lieu of clearance authorizing the vessel to proceed to any other port of the United States. The Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person by them authorized to require the same, may, in his discretion, require the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of any vessel bringing any alien who is afflicted with any contagious disease to detain such alien on board the vessel at the port of arrival, or at such other place as he may designate, until a physician designated by the United States Public Health Service shall have certified that such alien may be landed without danger to the public health, and may require the removal of such alien to a hospital designated by the United States Public Health Service for observation and treatment, such removal and detention to be at the expense of the owner of the vessel, master, agent, consignee, or person in charge thereof, and may require the fumigation or other disinfection of such vessel and her contents before the departure of such vessel from the port of arrival, and may issue a certificate in lieu of fumigation or other disinfection, which certificate shall be accepted by the collector of customs of the district to which such vessel is destined, and by the immigrant inspector at the first port of arrival in the United States of such vessel, in lieu of fumigation or other disinfection after arrival at such port: Provided, That clearance may be granted to such vessel without detaining her for the purpose of fumigation or other disinfection when the Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person by them authorized to require the same, shall be satisfied that such fumigation or other disinfection is unnecessary to protect the public health. ALIEN SEAMEN

SEC. 15. No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States, or detained on board any vessel for medical treatment, or detained on board any vessel for any other purpose, shall be permitted to land in the United States except temporarily, to the extent and for the time deemed necessary by the immigrant inspector in charge, unless such alien shall be duly certified by the proper consular officer of the United States to the Commissioner-General of Immigration as one who is entitled to enter the United States solely or as an alien seaman entitled to land temporarily and specifically certified to the immigrant inspector in charge by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, or his duly authorized representative, as one who is entitled to enter the United States solely or as an alien seaman entitled to land temporarily.

SEC. 20. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (except from Canada or Mexico) shall be responsible for the payment of a tax of $8 for each alien seaman employed on board such vessel and a tax of $4 for each alien seaman in transit to or from a vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the United States (except from Canada or Mexico) who is employed on board such vessel, and for the payment of a tax of $8 for each alien seaman (except from Canada or Mexico) who is employed on board such vessel and who is discharged in the United States, unless such alien seaman is entitled to enter the United States solely or as an alien seaman entitled to land temporarily and specifically certified to the immigrant inspector in charge by the Commissioner-General of Immigration, or his duly authorized representative, as one who is entitled to enter the United States solely or as an alien seaman entitled to land temporarily, or unless such alien seaman has been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence and is in possession of an immigration visa. Such taxes shall be paid to the collector of customs of the district in which the port is located from which such vessel is about to depart for a foreign port or place, or for any other port in the United States, before clearance shall be granted to such vessel, and shall be in addition to the head tax imposed by section 2 of this Act. Such taxes shall be a lien upon the vessel, which may be enforced by libel in the district court of the United States for the district in which such vessel may be found. Clearance shall not be granted any vessel until the taxes imposed by this section have been paid, or a bond given to the collector of customs of the district in which the port is located from which such vessel is about to depart for a foreign port or place, or for any other port in the United States, in a penal sum equal to the amount of the taxes imposed by this section, conditioned upon the payment of such taxes as may be finally determined to be due. Such taxes shall be refunded, upon certificate of the Commissioner-General of Immigration, to the master, owner, agent, consignee, or person in charge of the vessel who paid the same, if the alien for whom the tax was paid shall be refused admission to the United States, or if the vessel on which the alien arrived shall depart from the United States without the alien having been permitted to land, except in the case of an alien who has been admitted to the United States or who has been granted the status of a temporary visitor, or who has been permitted to land temporarily, or who has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant entitled to enter the United States solely or as an alien seaman entitled to land temporarily, or who has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant under section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, or who has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant under section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, as amended, shall apply to all taxes collected under the provisions of this section. Any such taxes shall be refunded only upon the certificate of the Commissioner-General of Immigration, the Secretary of Labor, or any person by them authorized to require the same, that the alien for whom the tax was paid has been admitted to the United States or has been granted the status of a temporary visitor, or has been permitted to land temporarily, or has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant entitled to enter the United States solely or as an alien seaman entitled to land temporarily, or has been granted the status of a nonimmigrant under section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1924, or

SEC. 36. That [no] alien arriving at any seaport in the United States from any foreign port or place [shall be] is the duty of the owner, agent, consignee, or master thereof to deliver to the principal immigration officer in charge of the port of arrival [a list containing the names of all aliens employed on such vessel, stating the positions they respectively hold in the ship's company,] when said aliens they were respectively to which they belong, and the nationality, last residence, and destination of each of them as far as known to the master, agent, consignee, or owner thereof, which list shall be certified by the master of the vessel and the surgeon of the vessel, if there be a surgeon, and the immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, and such other information relative to said aliens, touching their right to admission to the United States, as may be required by the Secretary of Labor. Any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel failing to deliver such list or any part thereof, or refusing to furnish such information, or any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who shall refuse to carry back to the country to which they belong, or to the country in which they severally boarded such vessel, any alien ordered to be deported by the Secretary of Labor, or any master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel who shall refuse or neglect to detain on board thereof, or on the dock at which the vessel may be moored, any alien who may be ordered by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port to be detained on board, or who shall refuse or neglect to report the name of any such alien to the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or who shall refuse or neglect to prevent any such alien from landing, except at the time and place designated by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port, or who shall bring or cause to be brought into the United States by land or water any such alien not duly entered by the immigrant inspector at the time of his arrival and in the manner designated by the Secretary of Labor, or who shall refuse or neglect to perform any duty required of him in connection with the removal, detention, or deportation of any such alien, or who shall obstruct or hinder in any manner any such removal, detention, or deportation, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or by imprisonment for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Any such master, agent, consignee, or owner of any such vessel may be arrested either before or after the departure of such vessel from the United States, and may be prosecuted and punished in the district into which such alien is first brought after such violation of this section in the same manner and to the same extent as if the offense had been committed and he had been arrested within said district; and it shall be the duty of the United States attorney of such district to prosecute such master, agent, consignee, or owner upon the certificate of the facts in the case by the immigrant inspector in charge of the port at which such alien was landed. [43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.]

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside thereof who fails to deliver on board such vessel prior to the departure thereof from the last port outside the United States at which such vessel touches, to any immigrant inspector at the port of arrival, a true and correct manifest, in the English language, of all aliens (except those specifically exempted by the Secretary of Labor), destined to the United States, who are on board such vessel, shall pay to the collector of customs for the district in which such port of arrival is located the sum of $1,000 for each alien destined to the United States who is not listed on such manifest, or $300 for each such alien who is not duly and correctly listed on such manifest with respect to name, age, sex, calling, nationality, last permanent residence, and final destination, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination of any such question upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each alien in respect of whom such failure occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the determination upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, remit any fine, penalty, or forfeiture, or any part thereof, incurred under the provisions of this section, or may discontinue any prosecution or proceeding for the recovery thereof, upon such terms as he may deem just and reasonable.

(b) Except that an alien seaman who has not appeared upon the customs manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any foreign contiguous territory, or that he was temporarily in the United States as a member of the crew of such vessel, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deport after discontinuance of his employment on board such vessel, unless he establishes to the satisfaction of the Attorney General that he was prevented from so doing by sickness or injury or that he was otherwise unable to depart from the United States, or that he was lawfully detained in the United States for the purpose of testifying in connection with the prosecution of any person or persons charged with violating the provisions of this section, or that he was otherwise detained or prevented from departing from the United States due to the operation of the immigration laws, or that he boarded a vessel which was destined to the United States but was unable to enter the United States because such vessel was not admitted to entry or was refused clearance by the United States authorities, or that he departed from the United States within thirty days after the date of the vessel's departure. Any such alien shall be deported in the manner prescribed by section 20 hereof to the country in which he arrived, at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, but such vessel shall not be granted clearance until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.

No alien seaman excluded from admission into the United States under the immigration laws and employed on board any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands, or arriving in the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands from any place outside the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of actual distress or illness, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of actual distress or illness, shall be permitted to land in the United States from any vessel until the immigration officer in charge at the port of debarkation of such alien from the United States. (43 Stat. 164, 8 U. S. C. 166.)

SEC. 50. (a) The owner, charterer, agent, consignee, or master of any vessel arriving in the United States from any place outside the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico, or the Virgin Islands, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of actual distress or illness, shall be permitted to land in the United States, except temporarily for medical treatment, or because of actual distress or illness, shall be permitted to land in the United States from any alien seaman (which term when used in all cases shall include a steward, cook, or member of the crew employed on board) until the immigration officer in charge at the port of arrival has inspected such seaman (which inspection in all cases shall include a personal physical examination by the medical examiner), or has caused such seaman to be inspected by the medical examiner at a designated time and place, and has delivered to such seaman a certificate to the effect that he has been so inspected and found not to be afflicted with any of the diseases or mental or physical defects or disabilities which would be ground for the exclusion of aliens from the United States under the provisions of section 3 of the Immigration Act of 1917, and has indorsed upon such certificate the name of the vessel on board which such seaman is employed to serve, and has indorsed upon the shipping articles of such seaman the fact that such certificate has been issued to him. The Attorney General may prescribe the form of such certificate and indorsement and the manner in which the inspection shall be conducted.

(b) Any owner, charterer, agent, consignee, master of any vessel violating the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall be punished by a fine of not more than $1,000 for each alien seaman in respect of whom such violation occurs. No vessel shall be granted clearance papers pending the determination of the liability to payment of such fine, or while the fine remains unpaid, except that clearance may be granted prior to the payment thereof upon the deposit of a sum sufficient to cover such fine, or of a bond with sufficient surety to secure the payment thereof approved by the collector of customs. The Attorney General may, upon application in writing therefor, mitigate such penalty to not less than $300 for each seaman in respect of whom such failure occurs, upon such terms as the Attorney General in his discretion shall think proper.

This section, as amended, shall apply to all beneficial visitors independent to June 2, 1940.

(d) Proof that an alien seaman did not appear upon the outbound manifest of the vessel on which he arrived in the United States from any place outside thereof, or that he was reported by the master of such vessel as a deserter, shall be prima facie evidence of a failure to deliver to the Attorney General such alien seaman as required by law.

(e) If the Attorney General finds that deportation of the alien seaman on the vessel on which he arrived would cause undue hardship to such seaman he may cause him to be deported on another vessel at the expense of the vessel on which he arrived, and such vessel shall not be granted clearance papers until such expense has been paid or its payment guaranteed to the satisfaction of the Attorney General.
